MORK & MINDY— WHY IS EVERYBODY GOING CRAZY OVER THEM?

In no time, Mork & Mindy became the hottest show on TV! Ratings are sky high.

Magic takes place every Thursday night at eight o'clock as people flock to their TV sets to watch Mork & Mindy. The audience finds themselves slipping comfortably into the world of make-believe. For half an hour each week, people can forget their troubles, and indulge in uproarious laughter. Mork & Mindy has become the remedy for a tough day at school or a bad day at the office. Robin Williams has given a new meaning to the word comedy. He has the power to make us laugh at ourselves as he shows us what we're like through his alien eyes. One week he reported to his Orkan leader, Orson, "Earthlings are violent. They slash prices and crash at friends' homes." Pam Dawber puts the show in perfect balance. She brilliantly plays the "straight man" opposite Robin's crazy Mork. What keeps the show fresh is that most of what Mork does Robin makes up during rehearsals—it's spontaneous. Mork & Mindy is an invitation to relax and enjoy yourself. So, if you've been missing it—don't! Join the bandwagon and let the magic happen to you! ●

Mindy's boyfriends don't find Mork's presence in her pad very amusing. He's very protective of his pretty pal and guys who have plans to get fresh with her don't stand a chance. Mindy knows Mork's intentions are good!

Mork and Mindy has become the biggest hit of any new show in ages. Almost everyone agrees that the first few episodes were the funniest. Mork's first contact with humans and the way things are done on Earth had him in a funk that still hasn't worn off. The episode when he was trying to save a dozen eggs in Mindy's refrigerator was hysterical. Since he hatched out of an egg, he thought there must be little men inside Mindy's eggs waiting to be liberated! Some of Mork's first reactions to Earth ways were so funny and so down-to-earth honest and on-target!

For all of Mork's craziness, he is a good and very moral person and he can't understand how humans hurt one another sometimes.

Mindy and her dad had to teach him how to defend himself against bullies because violence on Ork is unheard of. In the first episodes, it seemed as if Mork's alien cover would be blown because his wacky behavior got him into so much trouble.

Who could forget the time he kidnapped a mannequin and romanced her as if she were a real woman? It was heartwarming when Mindy sat him down and showed him the difference between holding hands with a dummy and a real girl and then showed him the difference between kissing a dummy and a real girl—the first hint that a romance could develop between Mork and Mindy! Fans keep watching & hoping! ●

Mork is so naive about Earth ways, he's apt to latch on to a mounted moose and talk to it as a friend. Mindy has to explain to him that inanimate objects don't have feelings!

One of Mork's best friends is wacky Exodor who thinks he's from another planet, but he's not. His off-the-wall antics rival Mork's!

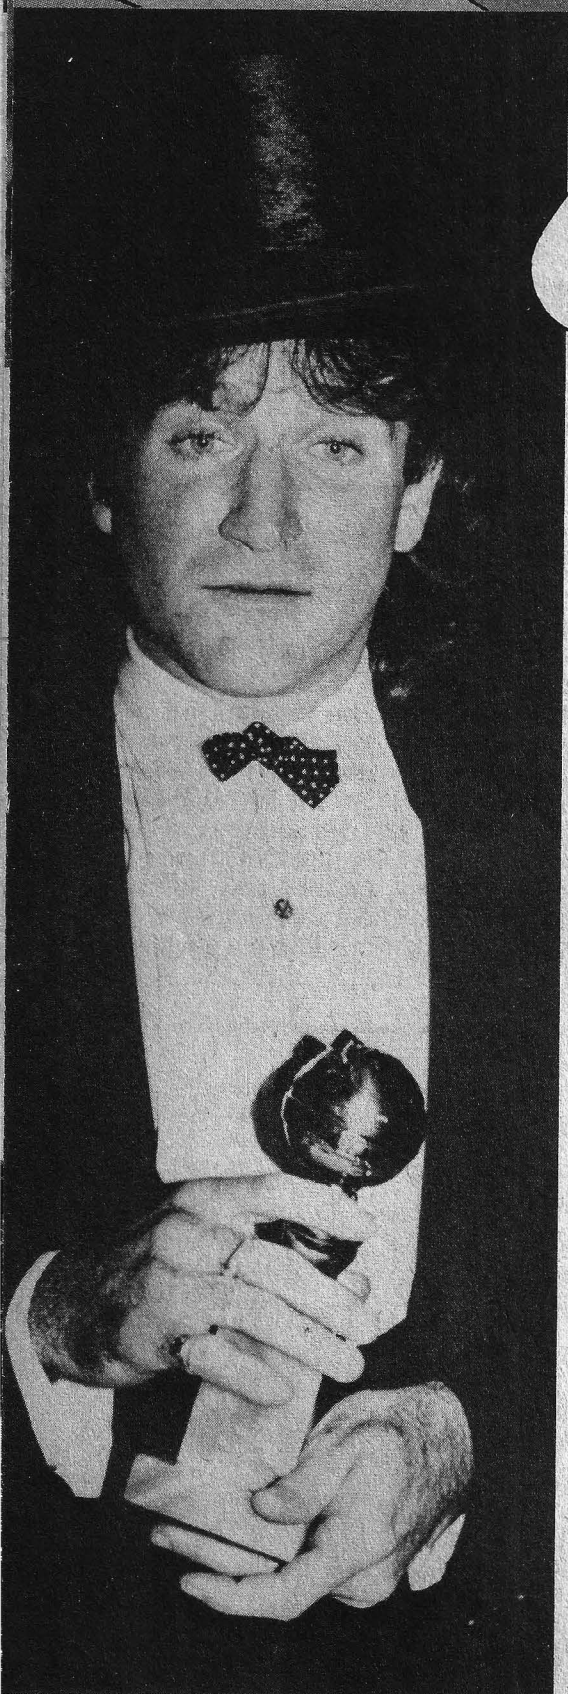

ROBIN WILLIAMS-

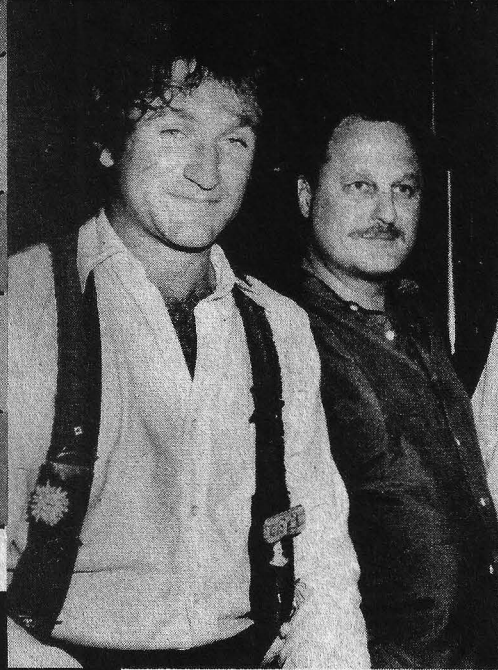

LIFE STORY!

He was a shy kid who grew up to become one of the funniest guys in the world!

Born in the bustling city of Chicago (he first told people he came from Scotland as one of his typical zany jokes), Robin grew up in the affluent suburbs of Detroit, Michigan. Robin attended private boys schools, where he wore blazer and ties and knew more about Shakespeare than the famed quarterback, Joe Namath. Just before high school Robin experienced a trauma in his young life; his folks moved to San Francisco. "There all the kids were 'hip' and into being relevant." As almost a defense against his new surroundings, Robin became the class clown. "They used to call me 'fats.' Then I lost 30 pounds, and I used to do comedy routines in class." After high school, Robin attended Claremont Men's College to study political science. But the acting bug bit him, and he won himself a scholarship to Juilliard School of Drama in New York. To earn extra money, Robin did mime in front of the museums. When he fell madly in love, he followed his heart's desire out to the West Coast. When the affair fizzled, Robin threw himself completely into comedy. Again, it was the perfect defense, the perfect escape from unhappiness. He moved to L.A., on the encouragement of Valerie (now his wife), and his comedy brilliance became the talk of the town. When ABC was searching for a new Mork, Robin won the role by out-auditioning 30 other comedians. From a fat, shy and scared kid, Robin became one of America's top comedians. The ratings have jumped sky high, thanks to Robin's multi-talents and Pam's wonderful chemistry with her ever-surprising co-star! Robin, the cast, crew & the fans are in orbit over the show's success! ●

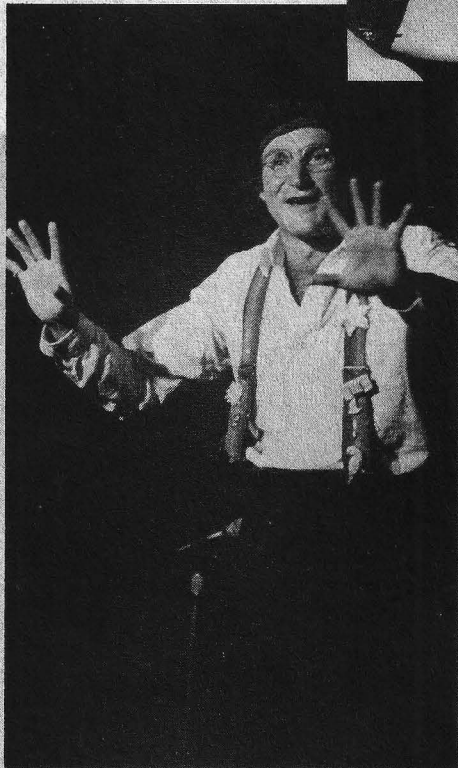

Robin looks terrific in top hat & tails! He was all decked out when he won his Golden Globe award.

Robin owes a lot to Bud Friedman of The Improvisation. Bud gave Robin a chance to do his thing, helped him get started as a comic.

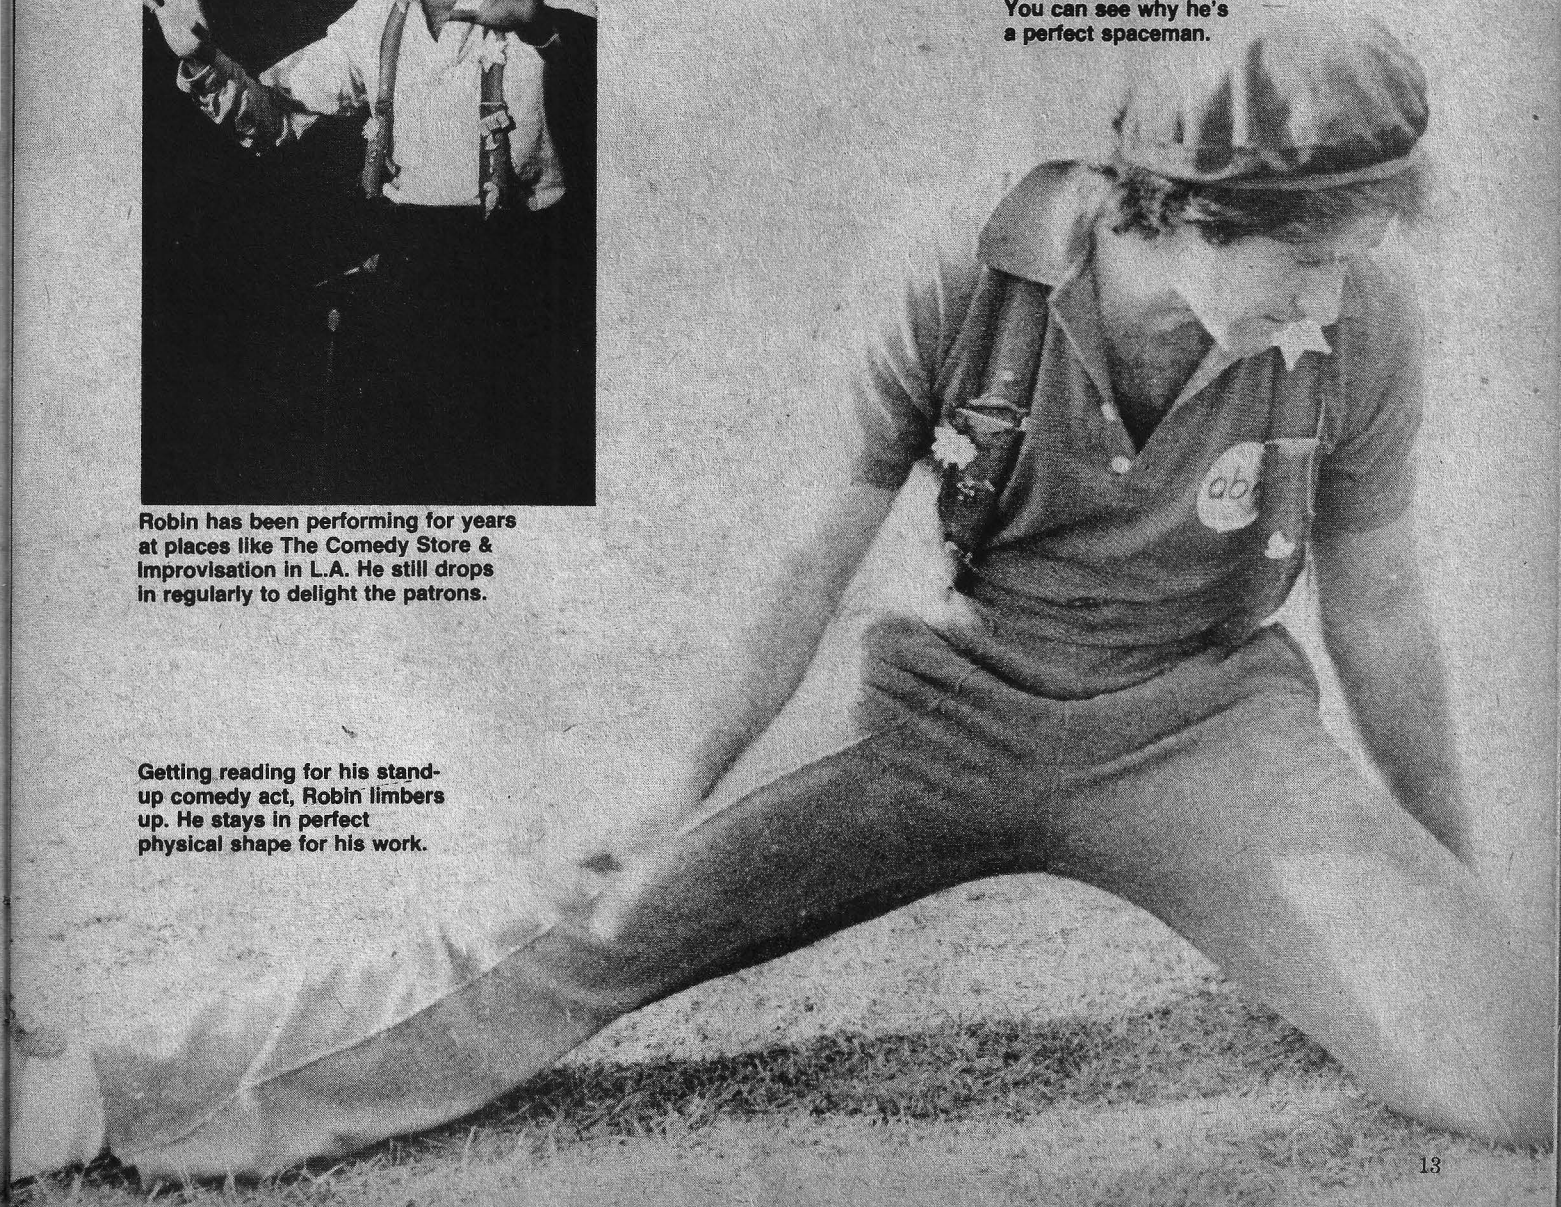

Wearing his bird-brained glasses made from spoons, Robin looks normal, right? You can see why he's a perfect spaceman.

Robin has been performing for years at places like The Comedy Store & Improvisation in L.A. He still drops in regularly to delight the patrons.

Getting ready for his stand-up comedy act, Robin limbers up. He stays in perfect physical shape for his work.

MORK & ORK FROM A TO Z!

Robin's a non-stop bundle of energy. The workaholic rarely allows time to catnap—but when he does . . . lookout!

A Ark Ark, has become almost a national anthem since Mork landed on Earth! It's the updated "Hah hah!"

B Baggy pants a tee shirt and rainbow suspenders are Mork's trademarks—but it's Robin's style, too!

C Chris Reeve (also playing an alien—Superman) remains good friends with Robin, his ex-roomie at Juilliard!

D Detroit is the area where both Pam Dawber and Robin Williams were born. California's home now!

E Electronic games and gadgets are Robin's passion! Where do you think he gets ideas for weird noises?

F Films are lined up for both Mork & Mindy stars Pam & Robin. Pam will do Riviera, Robin leads Popeye.

G Gleem has become a popular word since Mork & Mindy aired! It's the egg Mork hatched out of on Earth!

H Happy Days have been here ever since Robin debuted on that show! He was a match for the Fonz!

I Improvisation is Robin's specialty which makes the series so special! He can ad-lib like mad!

J Jogging is one of Robin's fave hobbies. He also likes to swim, read, play backgammon.

K Kidney operation for Pam didn't mean the end of her career. She courageously carries on with one!

L Laughs are non-stop on Mork & Mindy. Robin cracks not only his egg—but joke after joke.

M Modelling was Pam's career before she became an actress. She was featured in TV ads & mags.

N Non-smoking vegetarian. Robin is both—and he's very health conscious. Pam, too, avoids, sugar, eats well.

O Orson is the higher power Mork reports to on Ork. Mork's observations prove most revealing!

P Pantomime is one thing Robin excels at! For a while, he mimed in front of a N.Y. museum for cash!

Q Queer behavior—to say the least—is what you can expect from Mork! Weird words, crazy actions.

R Rollerskating is fave activity of both Pam and Robin. You can catch them at local Calif. rinks!

S Shakespearean drama was Robin's major field of study at Juilliard! He still enjoys serious dramatic roles.

T Tasteful—but silly! That's how to describe Mork & Mindy. The format obviously is successful!

U Unexpressed emotions! On Ork, Orkans are not capable of feeling human emotions. Mork's learning!

V Valerie Velardi is the wonderful woman Robin's married to. She is the love of his life & his inspiration.

W Workaholics! Robin never quits! After taping all week, he does live performing on weekends!

X Xtraordinary talent! It's the main ingredient dished up on Mork & Mindy each week by Robin and Pam.

Y Yoga helps Robin relax. He's a bundle of non-stop energy, but yoga does help him unwind at night.

Z Zany is the best way to describe Mork's nutty words and antics! Robin's zany in person, too!

HOW TO TALK LIKE MORK!

We've compiled a basic guide for you to be able to talk like Mork! But before we actually list words and their meanings, we think it's important to stress some guidelines to be followed to achieve the proper state of mind!

First off—start talking to eggs as if they were people! Speak as fast as you possibly can so that everything sounds somewhat jumbled together! Add comments aside wherever you can—insert them into (or should we say out of?) the conversation. Say anything and everything that comes to mind—the wilder the better! If you become perturbed because people are missing your point, you can always revert to the fetal position, as Mork does! To do this, collapse on the floor, with legs pulled in tight to chest, as if you were an infant unable to cope with life! Occasionally try relating to a higher level by befriending a character named Orson! Hah hahs are out—instead, substitute a healthy “Ark ark!”

It's important to talk freely and openly with plants—and if anyone asks, just explain that they are great listeners!

If someone suggests you make yourself comfortable, plop into the nearest chair—head first!

When asked, “Are you putting me on,” answer, as if in your right mind (but how could you be with this reply?!), “You're not even hollow!”

To salute a person: grab hold of your ears (one hand on each lobe) and give a slight tug, exclaiming, “Na-no nan-no!”

Try wearing your watch on your ankle because you don't have wristwatches—you have anklewatches!

To shake hands: use the two finger salute Mork's so famous for!

Here are some other far-out words Mork has made “household words”:

ORKTIONARY WORDS

Na-no, na-no—means hello, goodbye, plus other things if nothing else comes to mind!

Nimnuls: fools, jerks, idiots!

Geezbah: an exclamation meaning something similar to gosh!

Thribets: equivalent to our money

Bleems: a span of time

Little Hatchling Brothers: eggs

Scrim: scam

Harf: hair

Cholly-cho-cho: head

Nap, nap: hush, be quiet

Munchkin-like persons: kids

ORKTIONARY PHRASES

No sweat off my front!

To say “thank you”: spit

Tip my tripla: basically means tip my hat (then hold nose and say, “Doo-da, doo-da!”)

If after all this, you still can't quite get the hang of Mork talk, simply screw up your face and say, “Shazbot!” Translated it means: “¢$%%#&&*()$#%” (censored)! ●

HOW TO DRESS LIKE

MORK!

Dressing up like Mork is not only great fun, but it's easy to do, too! For special occasions, Mork wears his Ork landing gear! You can copycat his look in two ways. First, if you don't have one, you can buy a red-orange jumpsuit. But if that's too much, simply wear a red-orange long-sleeved turtleneck top and matching pants. For that out-of-this-world look, sew a large triangle of silvery fabric pointed nose down to your stomach. Put little silver racing strips on the shoulders and around the neck of your shirt and start acting weird! For everyday ark ark apparel, wear baggy jeans or slacks—preferably the high-waisted kind with little darts puckering the fabric. Team it with a striped tee or Hawaiian print top and add that special Mork touch—suspenders! Rainbow colored ones are Mork's trademark, but you decide which type send you in orbit and adopt the look. Attach little eye-catching pins and add a pair of white gloves for the finishing touch. Geezbah—you look grabat! ●

Mindy— Is She Too Good To Be TRUE?

In a word—yes! Pam is too good to be true! She's a good actress, terrific singer, wonderfully warm and sweet.

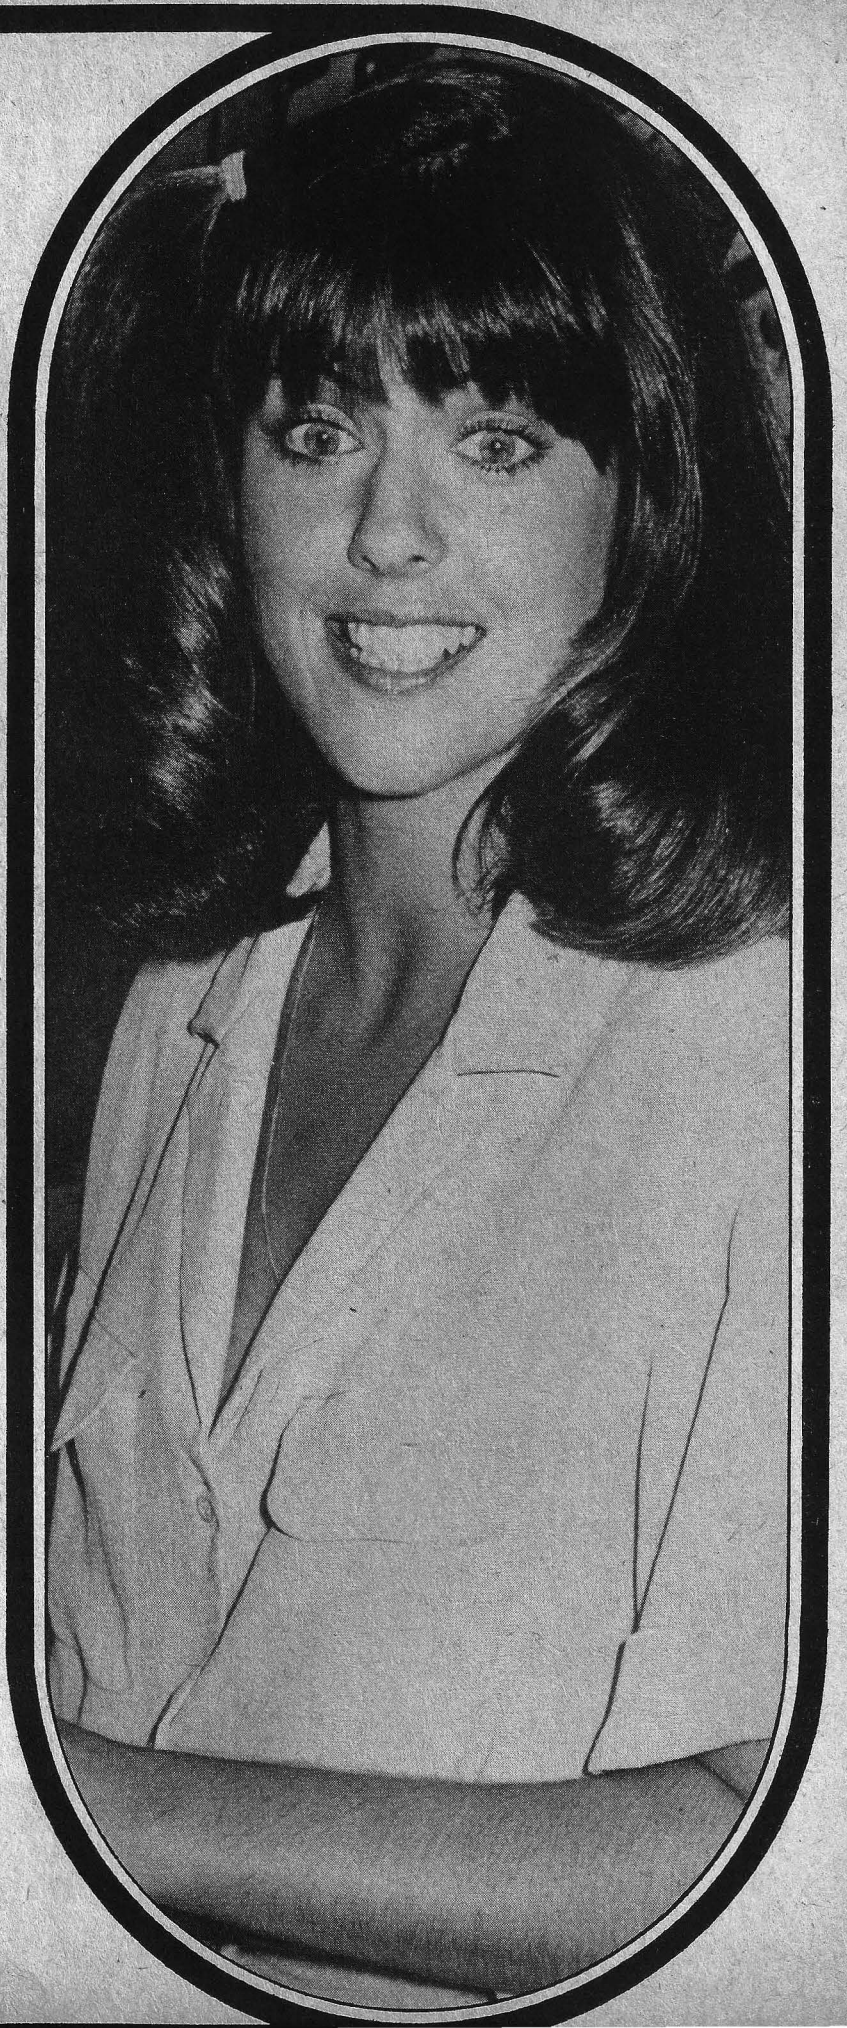

Pam is too good—sometimes even for her own good! For a while, when Mork & Mindy first aired, Pam was feeling somewhat overlooked by the press and public because co-star Robin was in the limelight. She said, "... anytime a writer does a story, Robin gets 95% of the coverage, and I wind up with a line or two!"

Pam was afraid of being locked into the "straight man" role, too, which wouldn't allow her to display her own fine talents. It took a while, but the charming actress finally spoke up for herself. Of course, she was later reassured that she was well-loved and admired not only by her co-workers and fans, but by talent scouts searching out new faces for films—she'll lead in Riviera!

Pam's life before Mork & Mindy was far from being too good to be true! Except for her incredible winning of her role as Mindy, Pam has seen more than her share of bad times, too. This beautiful lady bore the tragedy of as many as 9 deaths in the family in one year—including both grandparents & her sister, Leslie. As if that wasn't enough, depression over her career and her life in general, combined with grief, forced Pam to the brink of a nervous breakdown!

After intensive therapy, Pam recovered and was prepared to stage a comeback to the real world—and that's when she landed her out-of-this-world Mindy role.

Life hasn't always been easy for Pam, and she surely deserves loads of credit for bouncing back to become the wonderful person and entertainer she is. If she's too good to be true, it's only because most people wouldn't have been able to cope as well as Pam had they been in her shoes! ●

PAM DAWBER'S LIFE STORY

Everything You Want To Know About TV's New Sweetheart!

♥ She's Mindy of Mork & Mindy, the lovely co-star of crazy, zany Robin Williams. As he describes her, "Pam is much more than a 'straight lady' for my antics. She adds warmth." But if she keeps Robin's madness earth-bound, what keeps Pam Dawber so self-assured?

"Well, actually, I wasn't too very self-confident a while ago. It was Warren Beatty who convinced me to continue acting," Pam recalls.

Before that fateful meeting with the super handsome star of Heaven Can Wait, Pam was a talented but floundering amateur. Born to a father, who is a commercial artist, and a mother, who runs a photography agency, Pam knew there was talent in her blood. But in what direction should she go? This was her mystery.

Growing up in suburban Detroit, (Robin grew up there, too, but they never met), Pam possessed a fouroctave voice, a need to entertain, but very little confidence in her own worth. She attended a local junior college to study vocal music and art, but it was a friend who suggested she try her talents professionally.

Pam auditioned and got a job as a model for a car company. But the budding of her career was nipped by a necessary stint in the hospital.

The time away from her work lost her the job, and once again Pam found herself confused. "I was thinking of becoming an airline stewardess because I loved to travel."

Yet, another friend helped her. "I was attending my cousin's wedding in the East when my girlfriend took me along with her to a modeling agency." Pam got that job. She also took up acting and settled into the hectic world of auditioning in New York City. She made some commercials, but nothing came easily or quickly. "I wasn't good at reading for auditions. I could take a script home and study it and do fine, but I couldn't do it cold."

Discouraged by her lack of success, depressed by a breakup with her boyfriend, Pam was ready to quit. "I just hit rock bottom."

It was then that she met Warren Beatty, looking for girls for his movie. "He said to me, 'I don't know if you can act, but with your looks you're crazy not to be taking classes because there are few girls of your type.'"

Two month's later, things began to happen for Pam. She got a part in an off-Broadway musical. This led to a small role in the movie, The Wedding. From there she traveled to California, where ABC starred her in an unsuccessful pilot, Sister Terri, though the show didn't go, the ABC executives were impressed with Pam's "natural ability to act." They teamed the 27-year-old actress with Robin for Mork & Mindy.

MORE

Swept away by all her recent success, Pam keeps her sanity by skiing and camping in the mountains.

Still a bit frightened by the success of the show, Pam says, "I was afraid of being boring as Mindy, but with Robin, I'm beginning to feel looser."

As for the future: "I'd like to act in films like Jane Fonda and not make a movie just to make a movie." Pam will be starring in an ABC-TV movie this season, and she recently made an impressive singing debut on The Perry Como Special. The way things are going, Pam feels like she's floating on Cloud 9! ●

A beautiful blue-eyed, brunette, Pam is an actress and a model, but lacking in self-confidence, it was her friends who encouraged her career.

Overnight, Pam Dawber is one of the most-wanted actresses in Tinseltown. Here she's escorted by foxy David Fitzgerald to the N.Y. Film Festival.

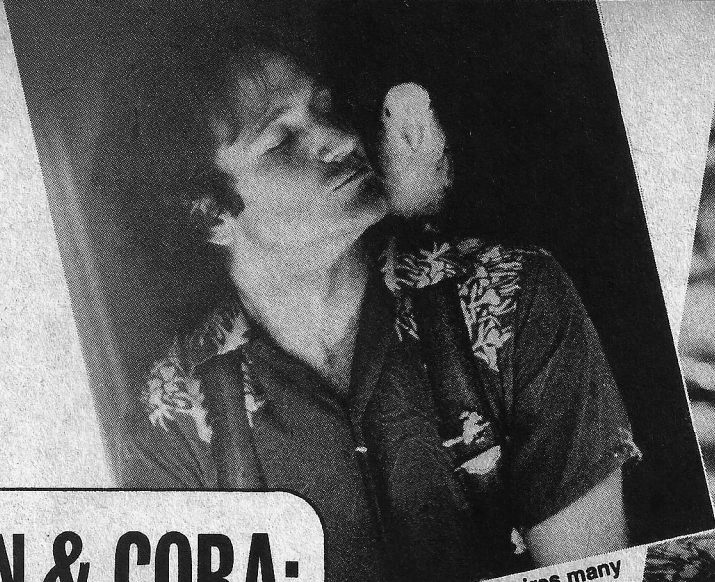

ROBIN & CORA: ARE THEY BIRDS OF A FEATHER?

Birds of feather flock together is the expression—and it's certainly true in the case of Robin and his pet double yellow-headed Mexican parrot, Cora.

Robin isn't talking "tongue-in-beak" when he says Cora inspires him in his work! The "crathanza" parrot talks—though her vocabulary is limited to "Hello," "I'm a bird," and "... censored ..." (better known as shazbot by Mork fans!). But though she says few words, Robin parrots the things Cora does say—the weird sounds, whistles and wild flapping wing motions which are all part of Cora's daily routine. So now you understand how Robin's comedy routines off-times develop!

Robin and Cora are birds of a feather in another sense, too! Both are vegetarians—the mainstay of their diet is birdseed!!!

You know what a crazy bird Robin is—he rarely flies right—but did you know you might soon find out what a bird-brain Cora is, too?!!! Robin has been making tapes and playing them over and over for Cora, attempting to increase her vocabulary. So watch out—Robin is priming Cora for a primetime guest-starring TV role on Mork & Mindy! ●

Though Cora inspires many of Robin's comedy bits, he doesn't find it a bit cute when she nips his ear!

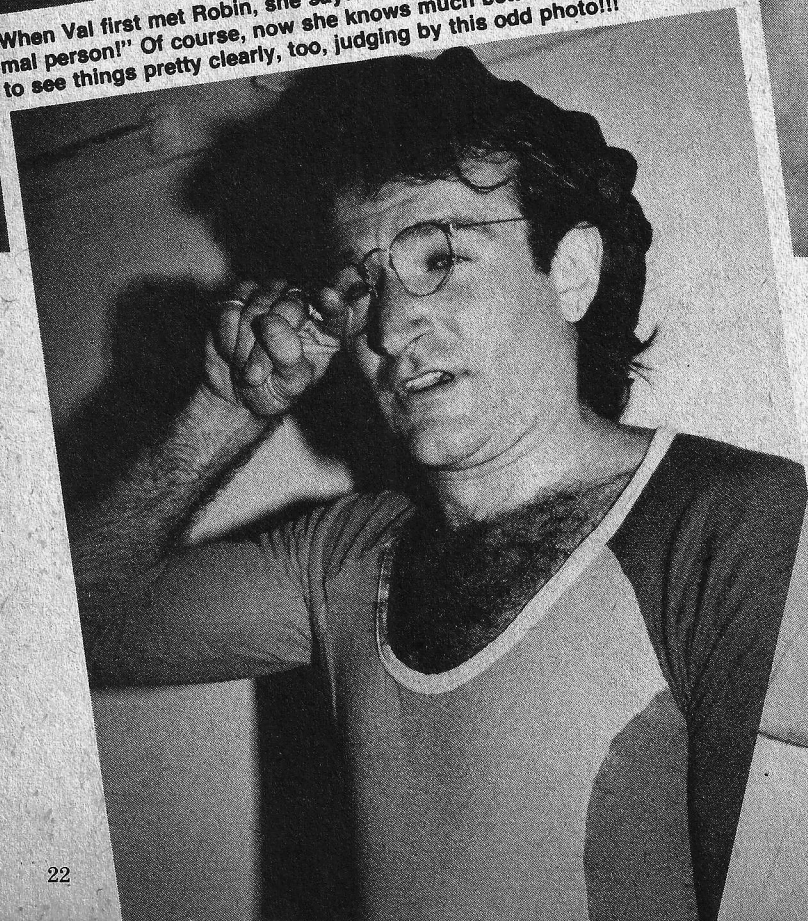

Cora, who's almost as "crathanza" as Robin himself, has a bird-brain idea—a way to get ahead!

Beside Cora, the double yellow-headed parrot, Robin also has two Iguanas, Mr. E and Truman Capote (!) and another lizard.

When Val first met Robin, she says she thought "he was a normal person!" Of course, now she knows much better! He seems to see things pretty clearly, too, judging by this odd photo!!!

Robin's instant fame created problems for the newlywed couple, but they've managed to put things in perspective. They survived tougher times before as struggling artists.

WHAT IT'S LIKE TO LIVE WITH ROBIN!

You've seen how Mindy copes with Mork living in her house—pretty well considering . . . He's always doing something weird, wacky and wild—and Mindy's usually undoing it. But what is Robin like at home? Is he as strange as Mork? Is he a split personality or does a little of his TV characterization come home with him? How does Valerie cope with Robin's crazy antics?

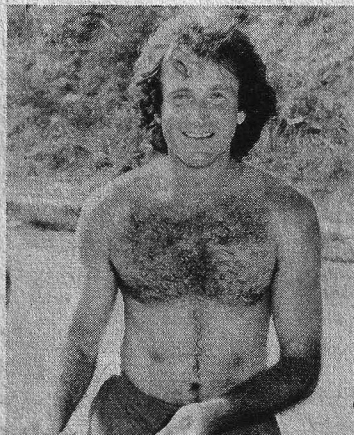

Apparently, Valerie copes beautifully—or at least as well as Mindy does with Mork on TV! Robin himself says Val is his inspiration, that in a way, Val is truly the star of the show!

"Val supported me, kept me sane and most important, kept me happy." She was the one who encouraged Robin to take his act to Hollywood rather than remain in San Francisco. "It was Val who made the sacrifice. She dropped her own career to help me with mine."

The pot of gold was at the other end of Robin's rainbow suspenders! But, of course, all that glamour and recognition was confusing and difficult to deal with. "Val's afraid I will burn out. She tries to keep the glitter from burying me alive."

Some of the ways Val aids Robin in staying down-to-earth is by making sure her husband

VALERIE SPILLS THE BEANS!

At home, Robin is a health nut! He jogs 4 miles a day, does yoga and eats no meat!

stays healthy. Valerie knows that health and fitness are especially important to Robin, not only in the physical sense, but psychologically! As a boy, Robin was on the chubby side. He was often teased and taunted by his classmates. By joining the wrestling team and by strict dieting, Robin lost 30 pounds, which boosted his self-confidence no end. He's a vegetarian, and she helps him eat the proper foods to assure Robin will keep his energy level high as Mork's sky.

Valerie also encourages Robin to do his daily jog, four miles a day, and joins him at yoga.

Val joins Robin when he performs live, and she admits, after a live show, she practically has to drag him home because he loves watching other entertainers.

Beside the live comedy clubs, Robin finds plenty of comedy material right at home. He has a pet parrot, who talks, Cora; two iguanas, Mr. E. and Truman Capote (named because "he has no neck!"), and the couple has another lizard, too!

Other stimulants at home which appeal to Robin's imagination are his vast collection of electronic games and toys.

At home, Robin also loves to go swimming in the ocean, right in their backyard. Rollerskating releases much of Robin's pent-up energy.

We bet all of you are wondering—but what is Robin really like—does he break into his zanies? "The Mork character is just part of Robin's repertory. He breaks into strange and hysterical voices even when we're at home together!" Val says. Does that answer the question? ●

MORK SHARES HIS OUT-OF-THIS- WORLD RECIPES FROM ORK!

Just for fun, we've put together some Mork influenced recipes you might like to try in your kitchen. Watch out for flying gleems and bad cases of laserbreath!

GLEEMS BENEDICT

4 eggs * 1 pkg. hollandaise sauce mix * $\frac{3}{4}$ cup milk * 2 English muffins, split and toasted * 2 Tbs. butter or margarine * 4 slices cooked ham or Canadian bacon

Fill a large frying pan with at least $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches of water. Add $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt. Bring to a boil. Break eggs one at a time into a saucer and slip into simmering water. Cover. Reduce heat and cook 3 to 5 minutes to desired doneness. In a small saucepan combine sauce mix and milk. Cook as directed on the sauce mix package. Butter English muffins and arrange on a serving plate. Place a slice of ham or Canadian bacon on each muffin; top with poached eggs. Cover with hollandaise sauce. Serve immediately.

4 servings

LASERBREATH DIP (& Laser Beams)

1 pkg. onion dip mix * 1 cup of sour cream or cream cheese.

Place dip mix into a small bowl, add sour cream or cheese and mix well. Cut celery and carrot sticks to use as dippers. These are your laser beams. Eat dip until your mouth tastes very oniony. Now you have laserbreath!

GREEN CHEESE MOON

1 pkg (8 oz) cream cheese softened * $\frac{1}{3}$ cup chopped stuffed green olives * $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped black olives * 1 Tbs. instant minced onion * $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. Tabasco sauce * 1 cup of chopped parsley * 3-4 drops of green food coloring

In a medium mixing bowl, combine softened cream cheese with 3-4 drops of green food coloring. Add both types of olives, onions and Tabasco sauce.

Mix thoroughly. Set cheese mixture in refrigerator for 15 minutes to harden slightly for easier handling. Take out and shape mixture into a ball (moon). Roll in the chopped parsley to coat evenly. Return to refrigerator and chill 15 to 20 minutes or longer. Serve with assorted crackers and chips while you watch Mork & Mindy on TV.

Makes 1 Moon

VENUS & MARS MEATBALLS

1 lb. ground beef * $\frac{1}{2}$ cup dry bread crumbs * $\frac{1}{3}$ cup cooking wine * 1 Tbs. minced onion * 1 Tbs. chopped parsley * $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt * dash pepper * 1 egg * 3 Tbs. oil or shortening * 1 package brown gravy mix * $1\frac{1}{3}$ cups water

In large mixing bowl, combine all ingredients except oil, gravy mix and water. Mix thoroughly. Form into 1 inch balls. Brown in hot oil in large frying pan. Drain excess fat. Reduce heat. Combine gravy mix with water; add to meat balls. Stir gently occasionally for 10 to 15 minutes until meat is done. Serve with gravy.

4 servings

NANO NANO NUGGETS

1 roll of slice 'n' bake sugar cookies * $\frac{1}{4}$ cup melted butter or margarine * 2 cups chopped pecans * Red and green M&M's

Preheat oven to 375°. Slice cookie dough $\frac{3}{4}$ inch thick and cut each slice into four quarters. Roll each into a ball. Dip in butter, roll in nuts. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375° for 6 minutes, then take out. Place one or two M&M's in center of each cookie. Return to oven for 6 more minutes or until golden brown. Cool.

Makes 48 nuggets

MORK'S GLEEMNOG PUDDING

1 package instant vanilla pudding * $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups milk * $\frac{1}{4}$ cup eggnog flavored beads * 1 cup frozen whipped topping thawed

Prepare vanilla pudding as directed on package, decreasing milk to $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups and adding eggnog mix. When mixture thickens, fold in whipped topping. Pour into individual serving dishes. If desired garnish with a sprinkle of ground nutmeg. Chill 15 minutes until serving time.

4 servings

FLYING SAUCERS

6 tomatoes halved * $\frac{1}{2}$ cup bread crumbs * 2 Tbs. Parmesan cheese * $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt * $\frac{1}{8}$ tsp. pepper * 2 Tbs. margarine

Preheat oven to 400°. In small bowl combine bread crumbs, cheese, salt, pepper. Mix well. Sprinkle several Tbs. crumb mixture over each tomato half. Dot each half with 1 tsp. butter. Place on cookie sheet. Bake uncovered at 400° for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot.

SCREAMING GREENIES

$1\frac{1}{2}$ cups frozen green beans * $\frac{1}{3}$ cup sour cream * 1 tsp. minced onion * 1 tsp. dill weed or $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. dill seed * $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt * dash of pepper

Prepare beans as directed on package. Drain. Add remaining ingredients. Toss lightly to blend well. Serve hot.

4 servings

MINDY MUFFINS

2 English muffins * 4 tbs. crunchy peanut butter

Cut English muffins into halves. Toast muffin halves until light brown. Spread 1 Tbs. peanut butter onto each half. Serve immediately.

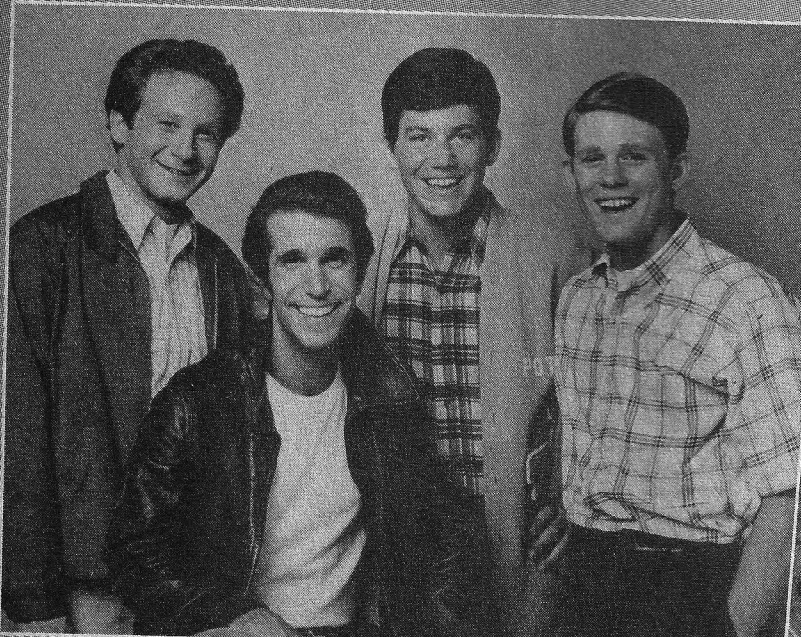

Serves 2 or 4

MORK & HIS ZANY FRIENDS!

At a social gathering, Penny Marshall (she plays Laverne of Laverne & Shirley) and Robin (Mork) Williams gab about the funny goings on behind the scenes at the ABC studios.

On Happy Days, Richie hangs around two nerds and one cool guy. Offstage Donny Most, Anson Williams, Ron Howard and Henry Winkler enjoy Robin Williams' company no end!

Laverne was Mork's first date on Earth. In real life their good sense of humor keeps Penny Marshall, Cindy Williams and Robin close.

By now, any Mork fan who isn't a nimnul knows that when that outrageous Orkan cracked his "gleem" on earth, he found himself in the backyard of the Happy Days family, the Cunninghams. His first encounter of the third kind was with the Fonz, and a battle took place over the possession of Richie. He next took lessons on human romance, experimenting on Laverne. So a deep friendship grew between the outerspace alien and his earthling buddies, Laverne, Shirley, the Fonz, Richie Cunningham and the whole crew.

That was television. But their fiction friendship has spilled over into real life. Robin Williams has become the latest wacky, wise-guy pal to enter the ABC world. Now, when you see Penny

The Fonz was first shocked then challenged by the man from Ork. But, though they had their ups and downs, the Fonz still thinks Mork's a cool dude!

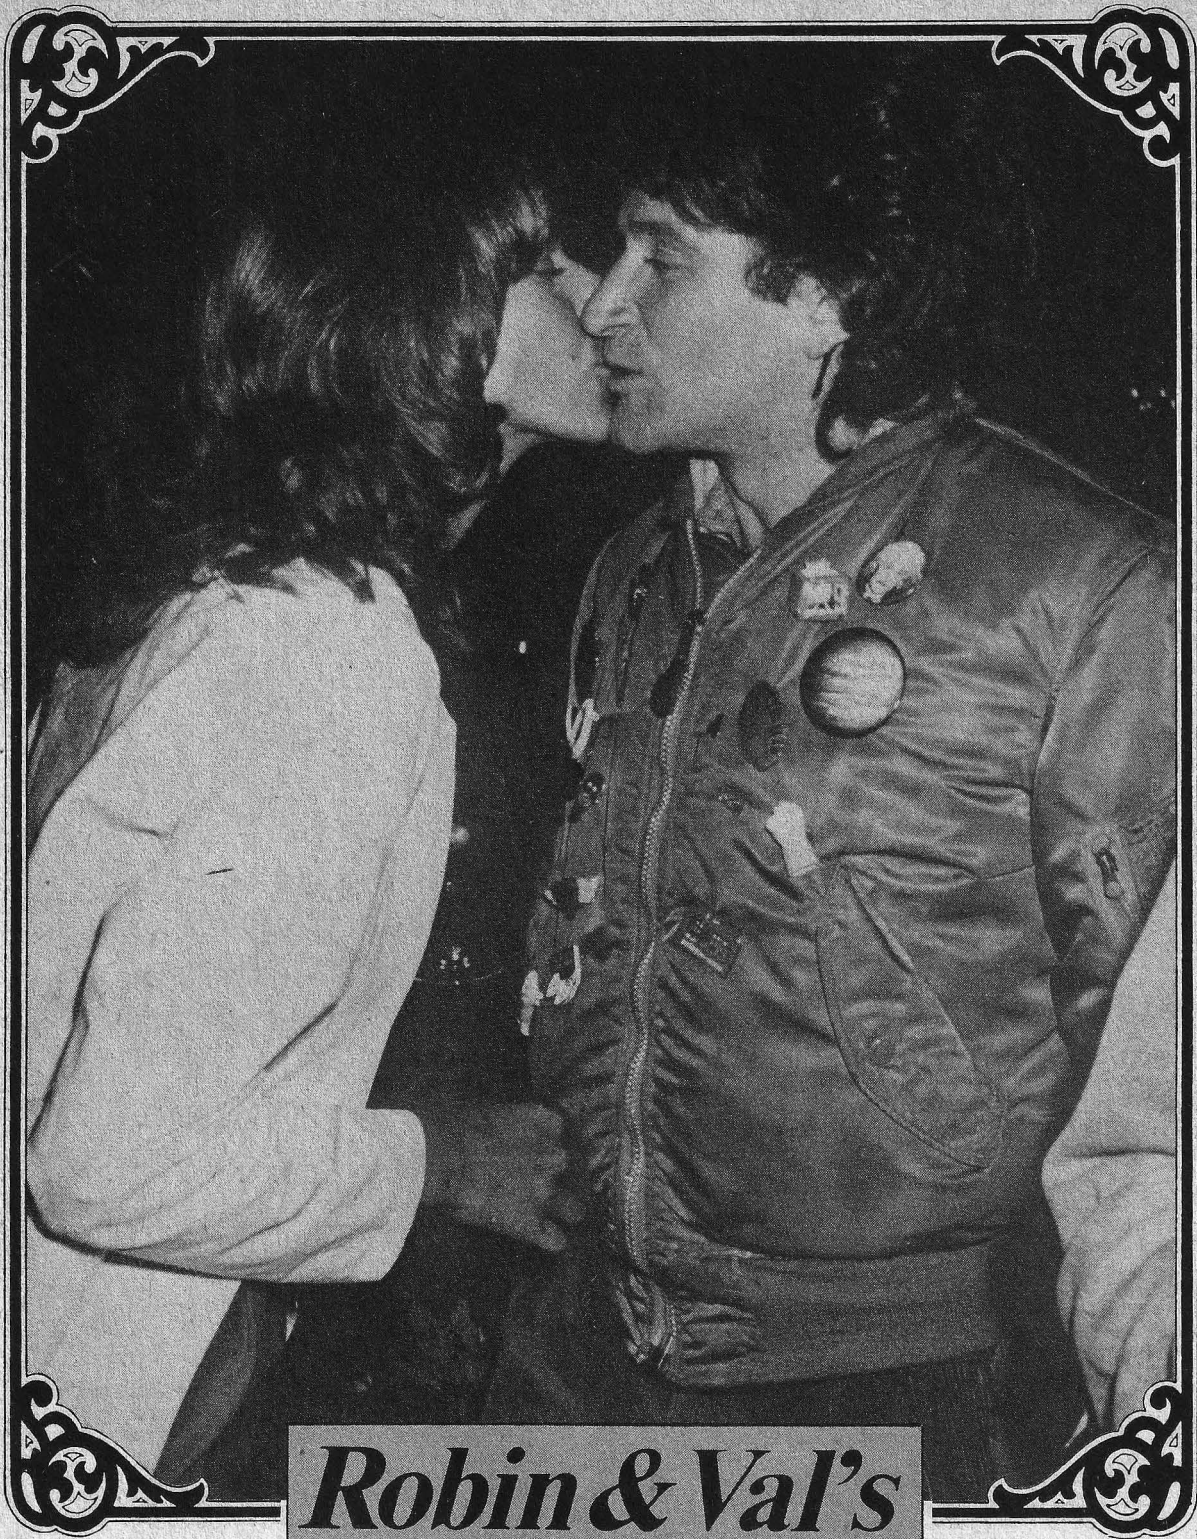

A motley looking group. Laverne, Mork and Fonz have gone through many weird experiences. "It's like madsville, man!" Mork says.

Marshall, Cindy Williams, Henry Winkler, Ron Howard and the rest of the crowd at a party, you can watch them play pranks on each other, yak it up and generally be pals.

The friendship between these people grew because everyone has one thing in common—a great sense of humor. You know the old saying: "When you laugh, the whole world laughs with you." When these good buddies ham it up together, it's like a comedy club—everyone is close and having fun. Can you imagine what it's like when these guys get together? It's fantastic! Even when it's not a party it turns into a party. Anything goes and everyone hangs loose with this gang—but Robin's the zaniest one of the bunch! ●

Robin & Val's Love Story

■ When Val & Robin met, they were both struggling artists working to make a buck at trades other than their professions (he a comic, she a modern dancer). What could be a more romantic scenario?

He was bartending between live performances at San Francisco's Holy City Zoo (a comedy club). Valerie (a grad student, who was busy waitressing at the time) said: "I thought he was a normal person. He was behind the bar!" Somehow, that sounds right! Robin working at the "Zoo," behind the bars . . .!

Robin says it was Val who encouraged him to "bar nothing" to reach success. She catalogued all of his routines, and was his toughest critic and most avid fan. "It was Val who made the sacrifice. She dropped her own career to help me with mine," Robin says. "I trust Val completely. She's the best friend I have . . . She tries to keep the glitter from burying me alive!" With all the excitement and pressures of it all, Robin says, "We've made it through with flying colors!" ●

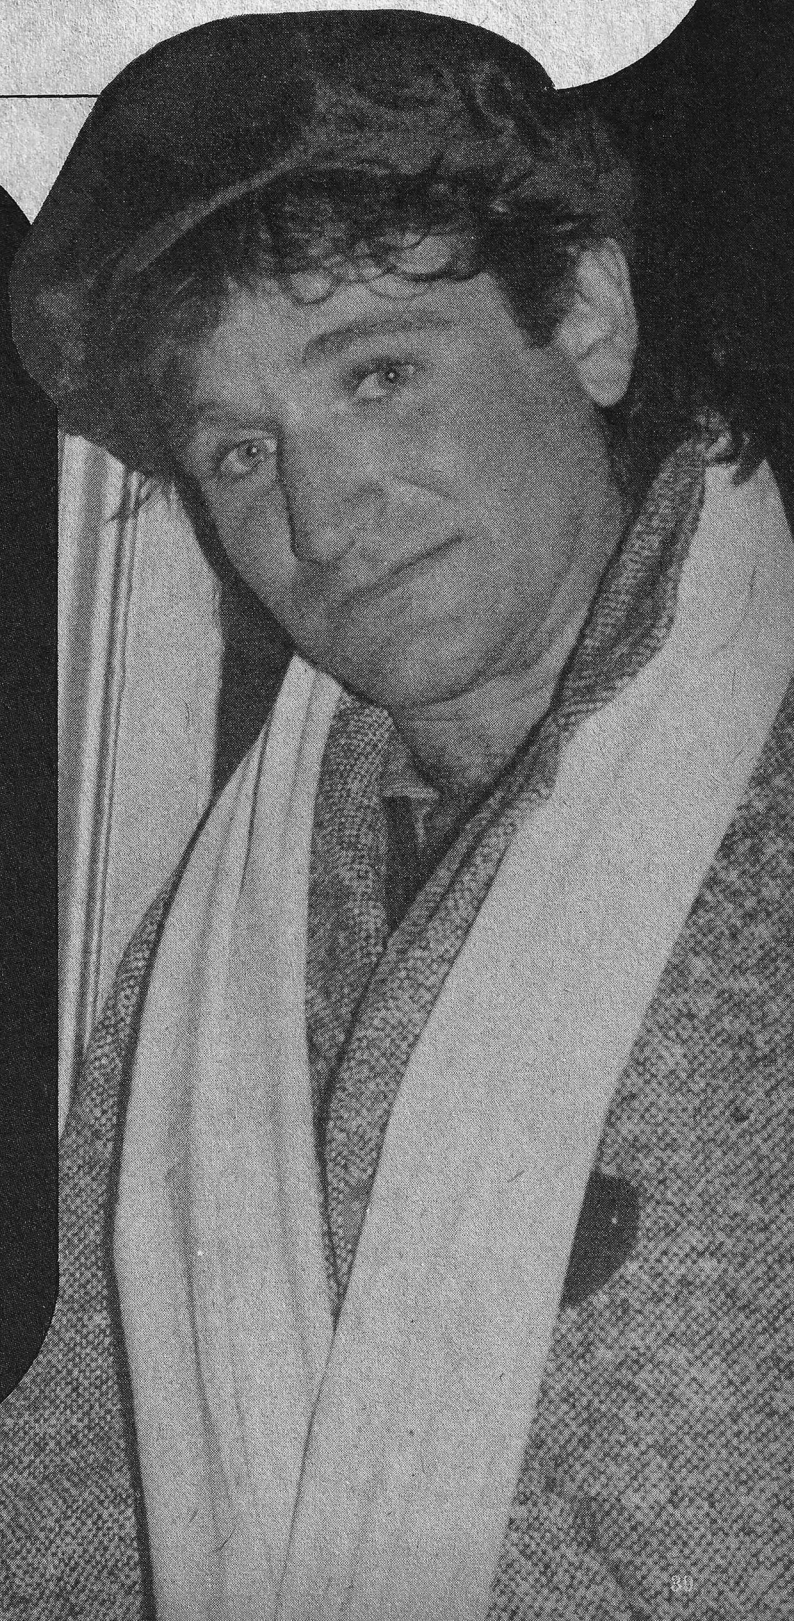

ROBIN'S CURE FOR SHYNESS!

To look and listen to Mork, you would not think he was particularly shy! But he can tell you, it isn't easy being an outsider! Feeling a little uncomfortable around others seems to be his only environment ever since he departed from Ork! You could say, Mork is the new kid in town—and that's never an easy situation!

You probably have heard the story by now that Robin Williams, the brilliant comedian who is Mork, was quite shy as a teen. But he learned to overcome this hurdle and go on to be a comedian of the highest caliber! You can pick up a few tips from Robin on how to cure your shyness, and learn to relax and be at ease with strangers.

Robin uses comedy as his shield against shyness. Some people cover up shyness by being extroverts—that is, they talk up a storm of nervous chatter to compensate for their anxious feelings.

Through comedy, Robin was able to "become" other personalities, different characters—the real, shy Robin could hide a bit until he felt more in control of a new situation and was willing to expose his true self. Now Robin isn't suggesting everyone who's shy should turn to comedy as a foil, but many professionals have discovered that taking acting courses, speech therapy, joining debate clubs or some kind of committee, is a good way to break out of the shy mold. The more you learn to speak up—the less shy you'll become! ●

BEAUTY SECRETS!

Guaranteed
To Send Guys Into ORBIT!

Pam's thick, lustrous hair practically has a body all its own! She experiments with new styles as you see by this whimsical side sweep!

Always neat & pulled together, Pam's inner strength of character permits the luxury of switching from jeans to gowns & feeling "right"! Confidence attracts men!

Pam feels it's superficial to focus all your energy on your looks. She prefers to be "out there doing" to staying in primping & preening.

Pam Dawber is one of the loveliest actresses on the scene today. A former model, she peeked out at you from the pages of magazines long before she skyrocketed on TV.

Pam projects a healthy, natural, all-American image, to counteract that zany alien Mork, on the show! It's ironic that Pam in real life, doesn't exactly live up to that TV image! Before she came to Hollywood, Pam faced some rough times, stemming from lack of confidence, grief over deaths in the family and the severe depression brought on by a combination of these factors. But through therapy, Pam regained confidence and got herself together.

At 5'7½", Pam is more filled out than most skin-and-bone model types, but apparently, that wasn't quite enough for Mork & Mindy producer Garry Marshall who suggested Pam wear a padded bra on the show! Pam promptly refused! There's an important beauty lesson to be learned here! Pam proves that confidence in yourself and your looks, will make you sexy and beautiful without being artificial! Instead of concentrating so much on her physical beauty, Pam's focused her attention on building strength of character and matched her look to that! Feeling secure within, allows Pam the ability to alter her looks but still remain comfortable! Pam's beauty tip is to send guys into orbit by altering your look on a day-to-day basis without shattering your total image! She's always neat, clean, pulled-together. ●

ROBIN'S HEROES!

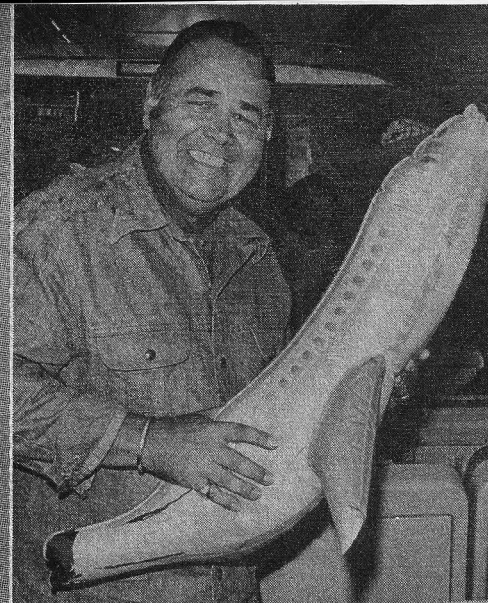

JONATHAN & LILY MAKE HIM LAUGH!

For a guy who was voted "funniest and most likely to succeed," Robin Williams has done all right for himself. But where did it all begin? Where did all this craziness come from? As a child, Robin didn't have many friends. "My imagination was my friend, my companion," he admits. But his real inspiration came from Jonathan Winters and Lily Tomlin. "My ultimate goal is to have the madness of Jonathan Winters and the depth of Lily Tomlin," says

Lily Tomlin doing her famous "Emestine." One of her many characters that grew out of Laugh-In.

Both Lily Tomlin and Jonathan Winters are very important to Robin's career. "My ultimate goal," says Robin, "is to have the madness of Jonathan Winters and the depth of Lily Tomlin."

Robin really looks up to Jonathan as a comedian. "Jonathan Winters is my idol," says Robin, "the Buddha of comedy."

Robin. He would spend hours listening to Jonathan Winters and then practice his routines in the attic. "He's still my inspiration, but I've never met him." Both Jonathan and Lily have the ability to step in and out of characters, a quality Robin himself possesses, which is something he admired in them as an amateur. Besides their creativity, Robin was in awe of the sensitivity they used in creating their characters. For example, even though Lily's

Edith Ann is a brat, you still like her for some reason. They gave a whole new feeling to comedy. "Jonathan Winters is my idol, the Buddha of comedy," Robin said. So much of their comedy is based on make-believe. They pretend to be someone they're not, but they do it in a funny yet sensitive way. Robin models a lot of his comedy after this. "I just love to improvise and play, that's why Mork & Mindy is so much fun. In that sense, it becomes a game, and even the audience is a part of it because that kind of humor generates good feelings. "It's infectious," says Robin, "if you're having a good time playing, then everybody will enjoy themselves!" Jonathan, Lily and Robin all have the power to make people laugh and have a good time, which is the key to their success. Robin grew up imitating Jonathan and Lily. Now kids are growing up imitating him. Well, they do say imitation is the highest form of flattery! ●

Lily has the gift of being able to make people laugh and have a good time. This is one of the reasons she has been so successful as a comic.

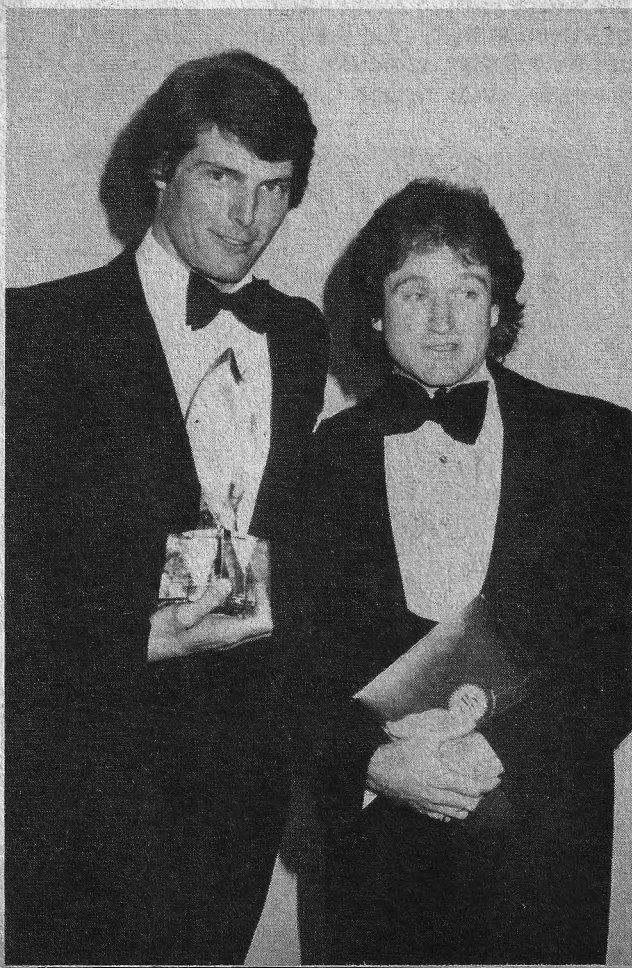

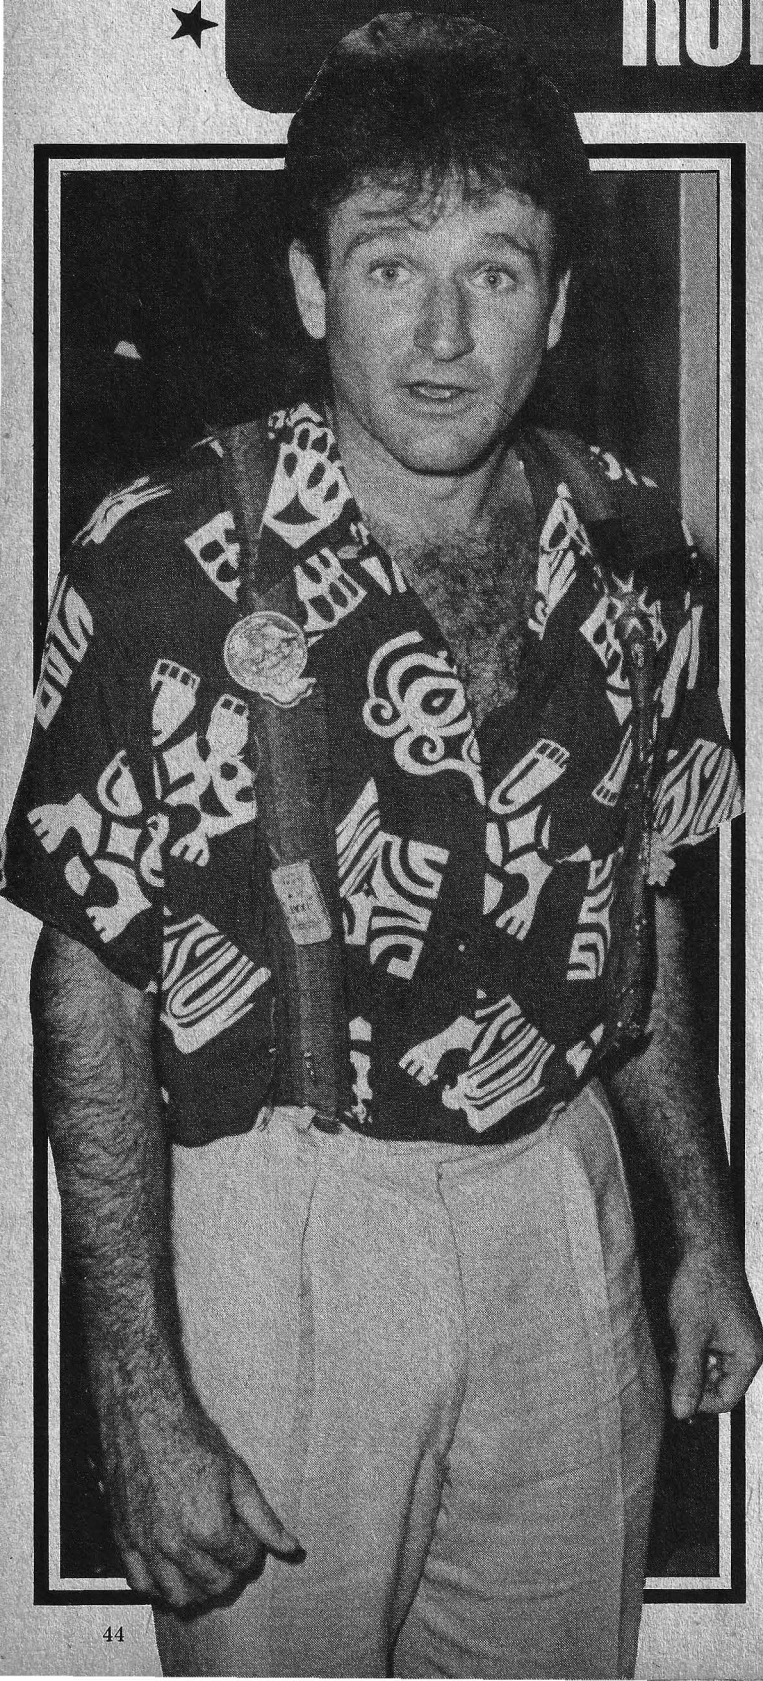

Lily Tomlin's "Edith Ann" always got a laugh on Laugh-In, "and that's the truth!"

WHAT IT'S LIKE TO BE ROBIN'S FRIEND!

Chris Reeve & John Ritter Tell All!

At the People's Choice Awards, Chris Reeve gave Robin his award, saying, "We voted you the least likely to succeed—the people knew better." They walked offstage arm in arm as fond friends.

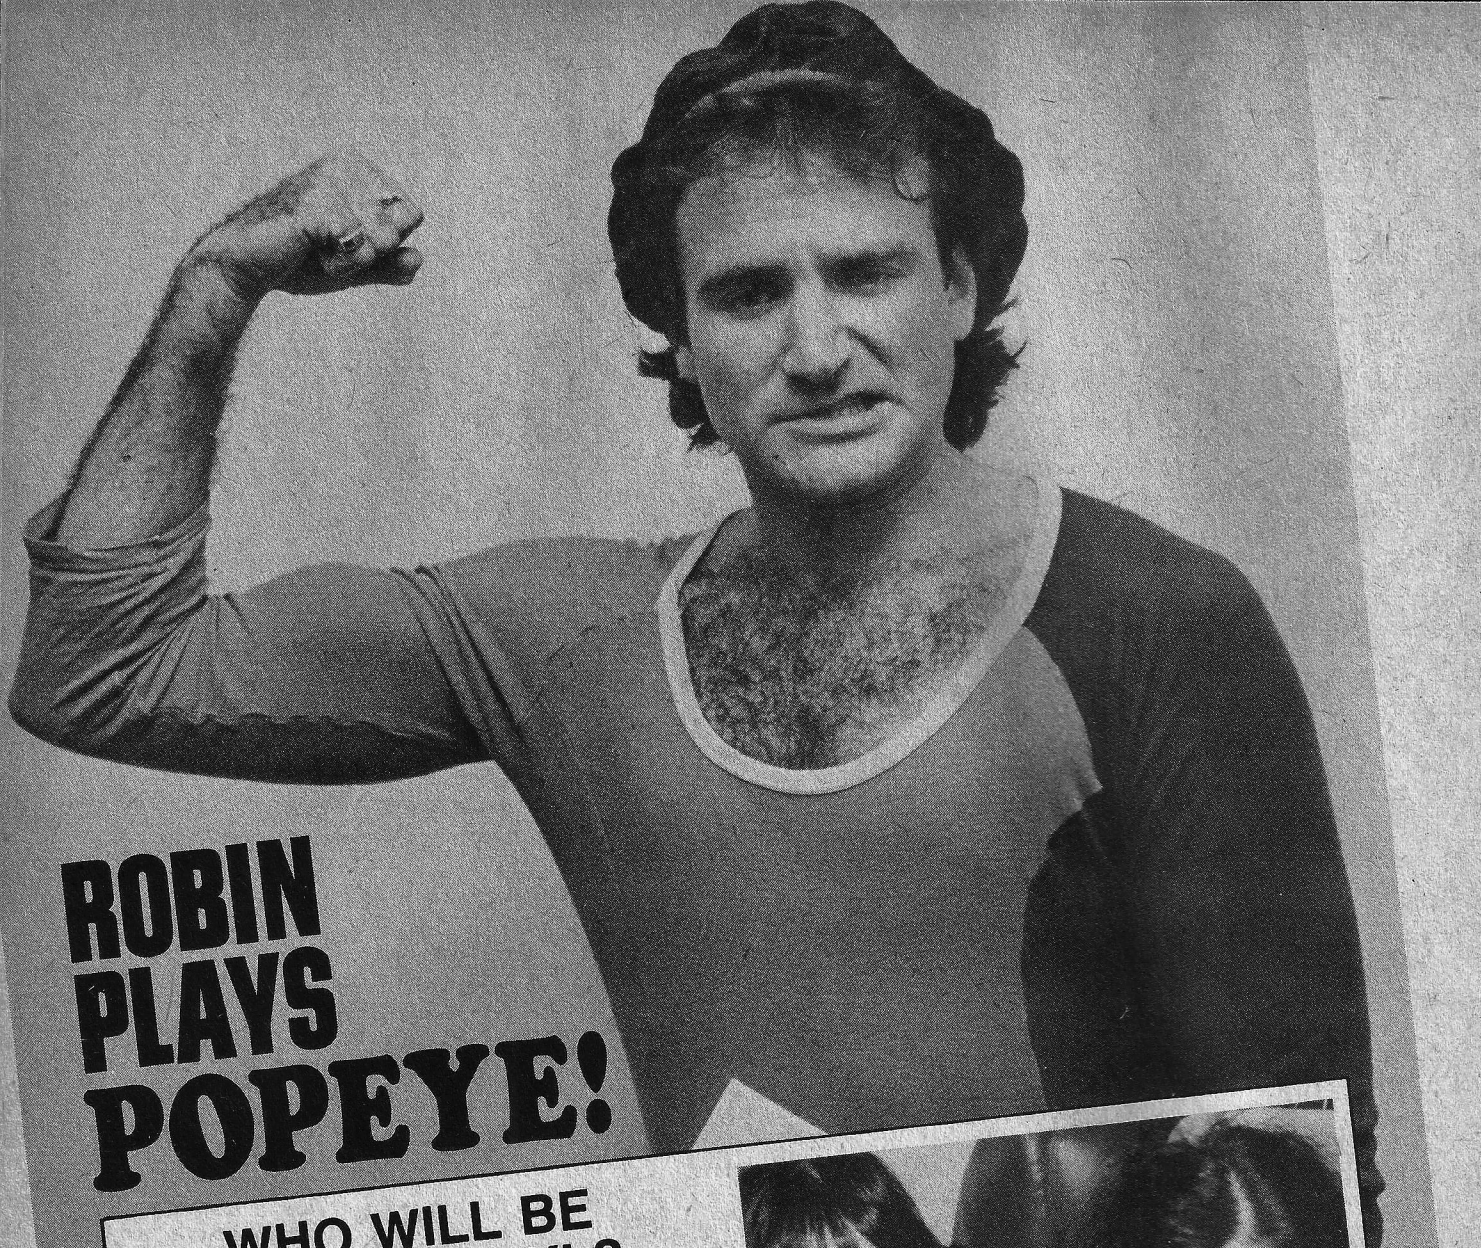

"Cha-cha-cha! I won't harm a hair on your cholly-cho-cho," says the madman Robin. He taped this act for a TV special.

At L.A.'s famous Comedy Store, where Robin was discovered, he and new-found buddy, John Ritter of Three's Company, do a skit.

Just imagine what it would be like to pal around with wacky Robin Williams—"never a dull moment!" Well, here are two people who tell you exactly what it is like. John Ritter of Three's Company works and plays with Robin. He says, "Robin's basically shy, but he has the freedom to do all the zany things most people wouldn't dare. I admire his spontaneity." In 1974, Chris (Superman) Reeve was Robin's roommate at Juilliard, where they studied acting. Living in New York, they were on a tight budget. "Robin would be mooching off me one week, then I'd mooch off him the next. We were always borrowing sandwiches and quarters for a soda," Chris recalls. After school their paths went different ways. Chris starred on a soap and Robin was in San Francisco doing comedy. But fate has brought them back together again in L.A. Yet, Chris still fondly thinks of their schooldays. "Those were great times for us. And they weren't so long ago either." Funny, now both are hitting the heights as spacemen! ●

ROBIN PLAYS POPEYE!

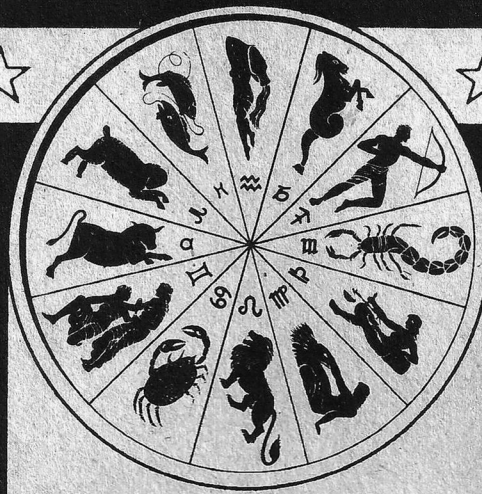

WHO WILL BE HIS OLIVE OYL?

Robin Williams is going to step out of his role as Mork to appear as the lead in Paramount's Popeye. The question is, who is going to play Olive Oyl? Paramount was all set to sign a contract with Shelley Duvall until Robin informed them he preferred Gilda Radner. Since it's Robin's first film, Paramount wants to make sure he's comfortable with the people and surroundings. They would like to comply with his wishes as much as they can and have invited his input on just about all the major decisions, a privilege not many actors have. As for the leading lady debate, no one is quite sure of the outcome. Robin is getting together with Paramount so they can talk it out. But until that happens, we'll just have to wonder—Duvall or Radner? ●

The leading lady debate: Paramount wants Shelley Duvall and Robin wants Gilda Radner. Both have the right look for the part of Olive Oyl. Who will it be?

ROBIN & PAM'S HOROSCOPES!

WHAT THE STARS SAY ABOUT THEM!

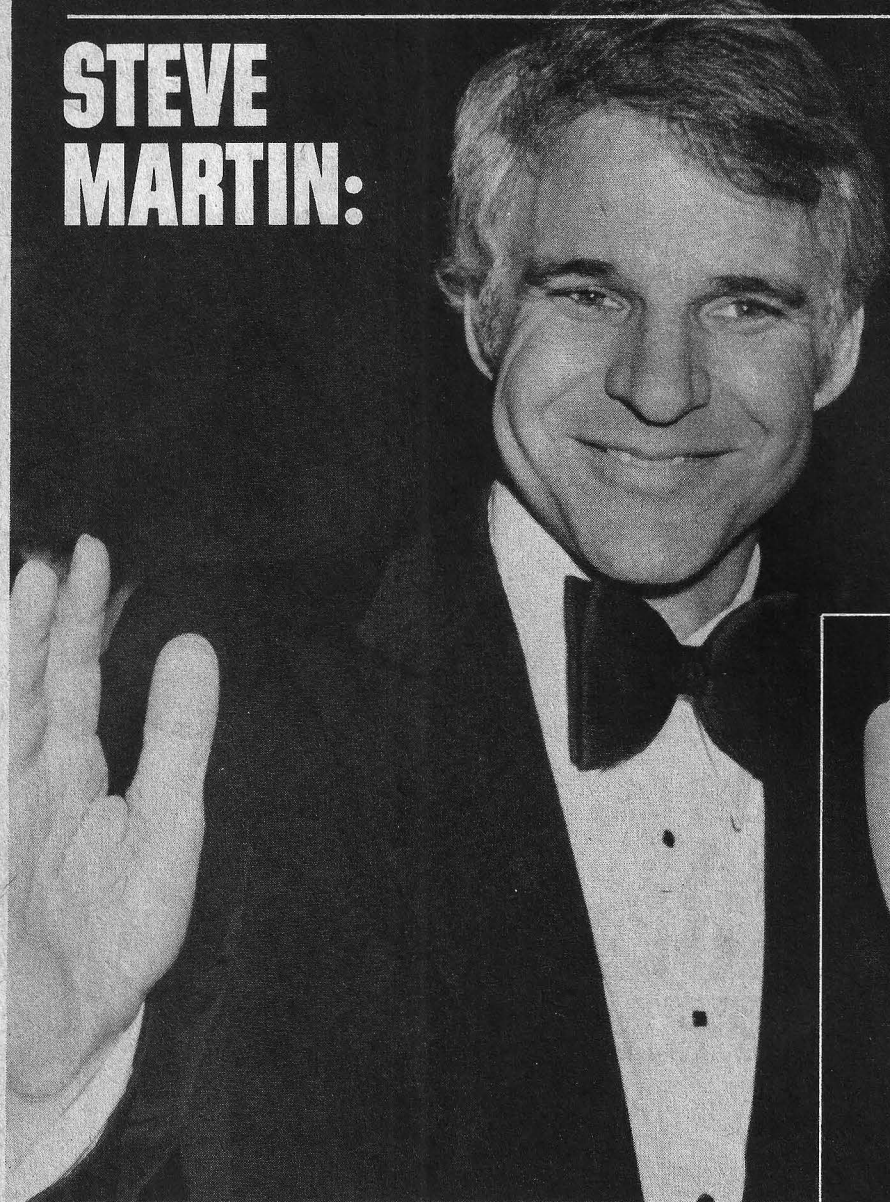

Robin's sign is Cancer. He was born July 21, and he certainly has most of the Cancer traits. He is home-loving and affectionate and very devoted and loyal to the people he loves. Although he reserves his passions for one special woman, he is a big flirt with other women. Sensitive and deeply emotional, he becomes gloomy and depressed when hurt or betrayed. Like many Cancers, Robin is quite shy when he isn't onstage performing. One way he overcomes his shyness is by taking on the characters of other people in his act. Robin is a typical Cancer in that he likes to collect things and hoards souvenirs from the past. He is an old-fashioned romantic in many ways and loves being home with family & friends. He loves the water and enjoys living near the beach. Robin, like all Cancers, is very moody. ●

Lovely Pam Dawber's birthday is Oct. 18, which puts her under the sign of love and harmony—Libra. As a Libran, Pam has a keen sense of justice, and she sympathizes with the poor and sick people of the world. Perhaps if she had not gone into acting, Pam would've been a nurse. But, being a sensitive Libran, Pam is also artistic and well suited to her role as an actress. Librans are even-tempered and calm, but beneath their cool exterior lies an impassioned heart, which is inspired to do great things. As a friend, Pam is ideal. She loves people and will always care. Librans enjoy a public life, this is why Pam is so happy in her chosen career. Romantically, Librans are affectionate, considerate and gentle. Librans seek the stability of marriage and enjoy a long and warm relationship with their spouse. ●

OTHER WILD 'n' CRAZIES!

STEVE MARTIN:

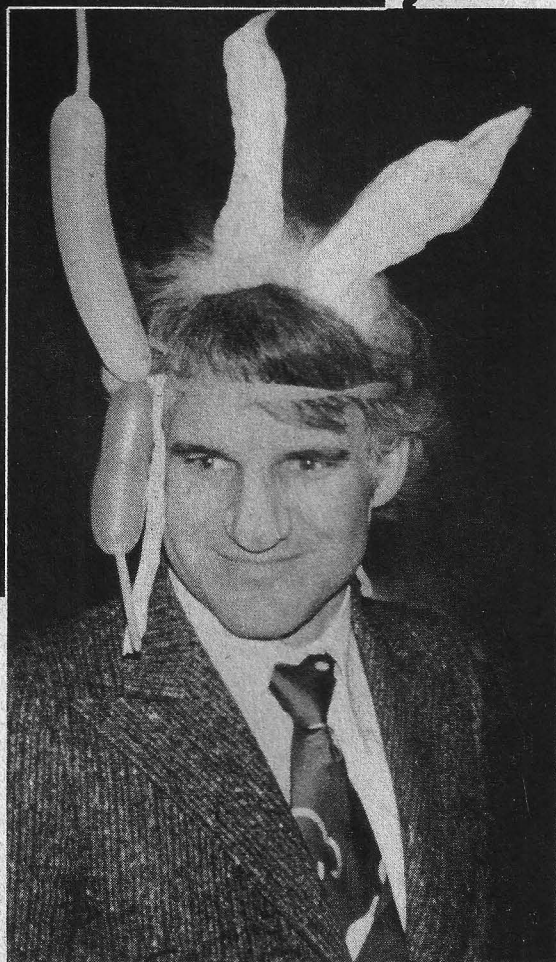

IS HE AS LOONY AS ROBIN?

Even when he's trying to be serious, Steve Martin has a face that makes you want to laugh. Maybe it's that mischievous twinkle in his eye that lets you know he's fun.

Steve puts on a fake nose, bunny ears and balloons to make you laugh. Robin Williams dons glasses made of spoons and feathers to crack your funny bone!

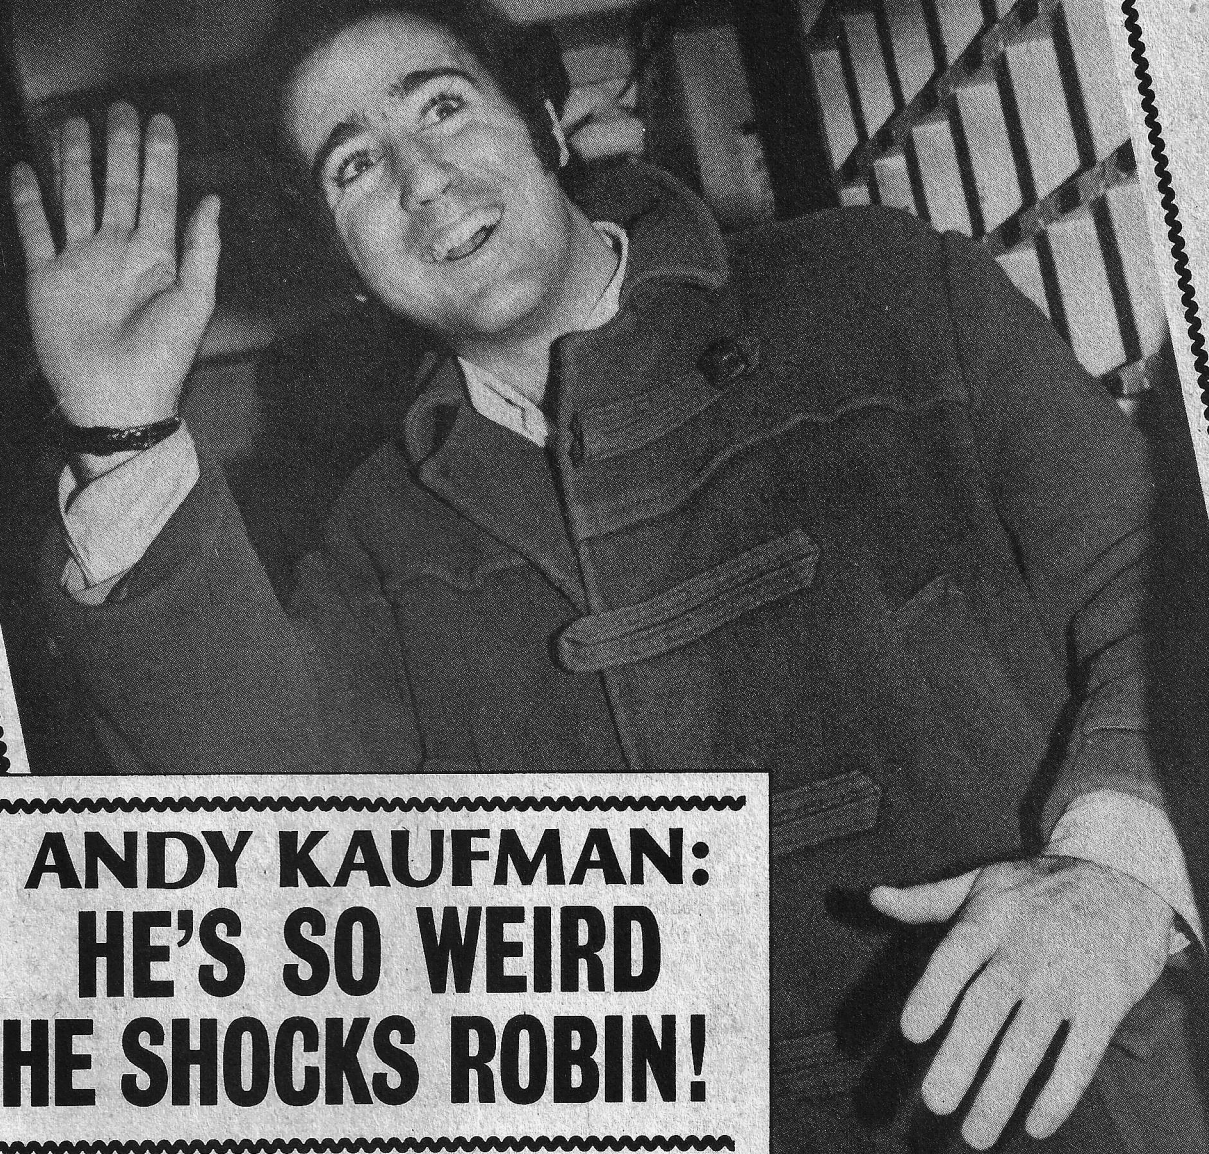

Something very strange is happening to comedy these days. Suddenly, jokes aren't heavy political satire. Stand-up comedians aren't just ranking out everyone and everything. Suddenly, comedy is fun, slapstick, craziness. And people are laughing harder than ever. Steve Martin was the first comedian to bring all the fun back into comedy. He puts on bunny ears and the audience howls. He throws rubber fish and the crowd falls off their seats. But Steve isn't the only new comedian doing fun things. Robin Williams, Mork from Ork, is just as wacky. Though he doesn't wear a tailored white suit like Steve, these two guys are a lot alike. In baggy pants and ragged suspenders, Robin goes into funny voices and weird characters. Like Steve, his face, as pliable as Playdough, transforms magically before your eyes. There are many similarities between Steve and Robin, their quick pace, their spontaneity. Aren't you glad they're both "wild 'n' crazy guys"? This way, you can love them both twice as much! ●

OTHER WILD 'n' CRAZIES!

ANDY KAUFMAN: HE'S SO WEIRD HE SHOCKS ROBIN!

Mork is not the only alien to come along this year. Andy Kaufman plays the zany character of Latka Gravas, on Taxi, whose national origin is questionable. Latka does not communicate in simple na-no na-nos or shazbots, but rather a stream of incomprehensible syllables that somehow manage to get his point across. Taxi's plots often center around Latka and the problems he encounters as an alien, not unlike Mork & Mindy. But Andy Kaufman's Latka Gravas is the only one of the many characters he is capable of doing. Like Robin Williams, Andy does a stand-up routine in nightclubs, and got his start doing just that. When Andy Kaufman hits the stage, he really puts on a show. The overture for the show ranges from "The Impossible Dream" to the Popeye theme song, which is as varied as his repertoire of characters. His show is elaborate and the energy never stops! One minute he's onstage masquerading as a talentless nightclub singer, and the next minute he's wrestling with a member of the audience. Then, later in the show, he'll throw in a couple of old short films about singing and dancing cowboys and cowgirls. It's a whirlwind of fun that encompasses the audience from start to finish. Andy Kaufman is full of surprises, with him you never know what's coming next! ●

4. Belushi got the idea for Blues Bros. because he always loved Sam & Dave.
5. John perfected his Joe Cocker imitation while working in a factory.
6. Belushi & Ackroyd are close but Dan says: "I have to keep him in line!"
7. The cast does a dress rehearsal early in the evening, the live telecast later.
8. Belushi says: "When in doubt, I floor it. I've always lived real fast."
9. Belushi's philosophy: "I just let things take their course."
10. Gilda says of the cast: "There are ego problems every day."
11. "We're just like a family," Gilda says. "We all cry in front of each other."
12. "I love doing Emily Litella," says Gilda. "I'd do her every show if they would let me."
13. Gilda was shy & overweight as a teen and says she always dreaded dateless Saturday nights.
14. Gilda is still very uncomfortable about being recognized out in public.
15. Someone once wrote Gilda a letter saying her face looked like a prune!
16. Garrett Morris says most of his fan mail asks for him to do more on the show.

Bill Murray and Gilda Radner delight viewers when they play Todd & Lisa Luberner. Todd's getting ready to give Lisa "noogies" in this silly recent show scene.

Lorraine does her imitation of Paul Stanley. The cast has done takeoffs on everyone from Kiss to Village People.

17. Mr. Mike is portrayed by Sat. Night writer Michael O'Donoghue. He's really wild!

18. "I always hated Saturday night because it condemned you to festivities," says Gilda.

19. Gilda says she's worked every Saturday night for the past six years.

20. Gilda is quiet, sensitive, delightfully funny and bubbly in person.

21. Gilda was always performing in her backyard or her bedroom as a child.

22. Dan Ackroyd and John Belushi are making a movie based on the Blues Brothers' lives.

23. Dan and John also have serious roles in the multi-million dollar film, 1941.

24. Bill Murray also made his acting debut in a movie recently. It is a comedy.

25. Offstage, Bill is easygoing and warm but not as outgoing and loud as you would expect.

26. Lorraine is a loner and very very thin. Her boyfriend is singer/songwriter Andrew Gold.

27. Bill Murray and Gilda Radner date one another off and on. They are very close.

28. Jane Curtin is the most mature of all the cast members. She is married.

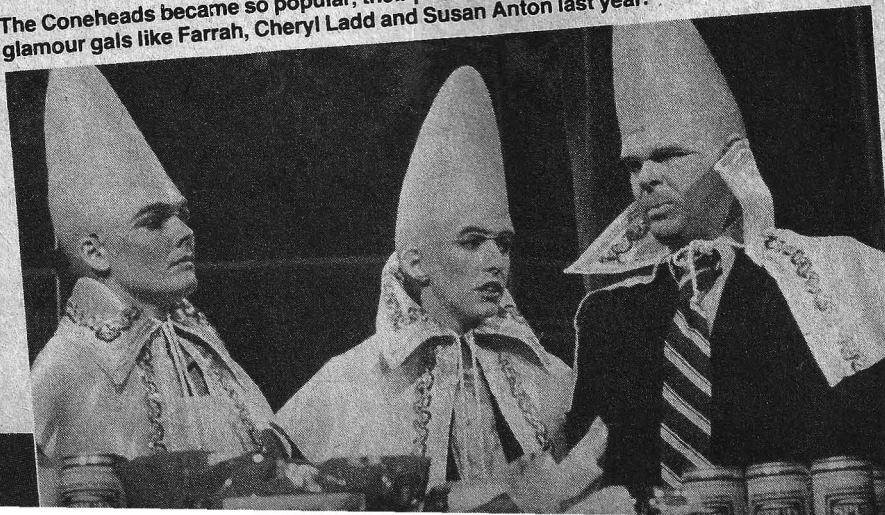

29. Jane is one of the few people who can keep a straight face while wearing a conehead!

30. The cast is very close and everyone is very affectionate and supportive of each other.

31. "Real cute guys on the show make me nervous," says Gilda. She freaked over Travolta.

32. Dan Ackroyd does a perfect imitation of Jimmy Carter.

The Coneheads became so popular, their poster outsold some of the glamour gals like Farrah, Cheryl Ladd and Susan Anton last year.

50 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE GANG!!!

33. Dan is quite a lady killer and Bill Murray is also quite a ladies' man.

34. "We don't do this show for the money," Belushi says. "We do it because we love it."

35. "To support yourself doing something you like is harder than just having a job," John says.

36. "Gilda's getting paid for doing what she used to do in her bedroom," a friend says.

37. "I base most of my fashion taste on what doesn't itch," says zany Gilda!

38. None of the cast lets outsiders get too close. They are a close knit group.

39. John says, "I want to make it clear I don't take drugs. I'm a natural nut."

40. The cast members must work six days a week. Sunday is their only day off.

41. After the Sat. night show, the cast & staff all go out to a restaurant and party.

42. Gilda loves eating penny candy. She also keeps lots of apples on hand to bite!

43. None of the cast is anxious to do what they call "prime time slime." Movies are another matter.

44. John is very happily married and says his wife and friends keep him sane!

45. "We're just a bunch of kids," says Gilda. Things do get rowdy on the set!

46. Some of the satires on the news and photos used on "Update" shock even the cast!

47. New fave characters on the shows are Todd & Lisa and the Widebottoms.

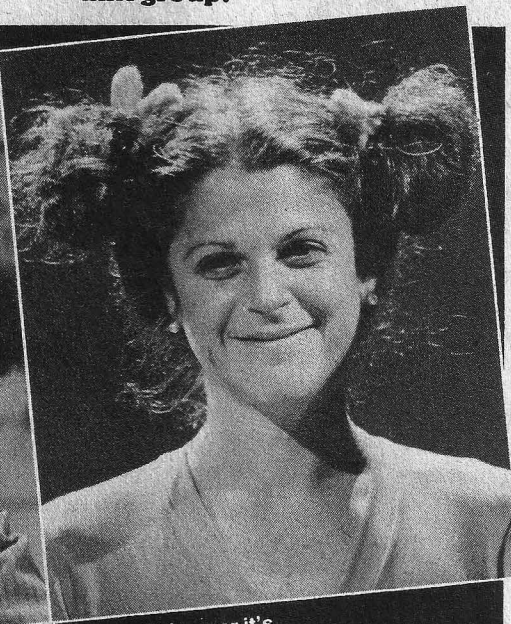

48. The writers sometimes get letters from irate viewers addressed not too nicely!

49. John and Dan now own their own bar in Greenwich Village & hang out there a lot.

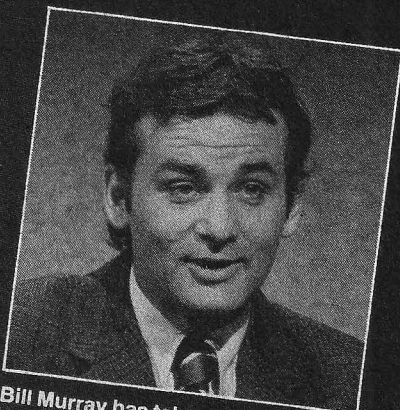

50. The cast tries to help guest stars have a good time in New York, often take them out.

Gilda's Baba Wawa was a fave with audiences last year. This year it's Roseanne Roseannadanna who is driving viewers wild!

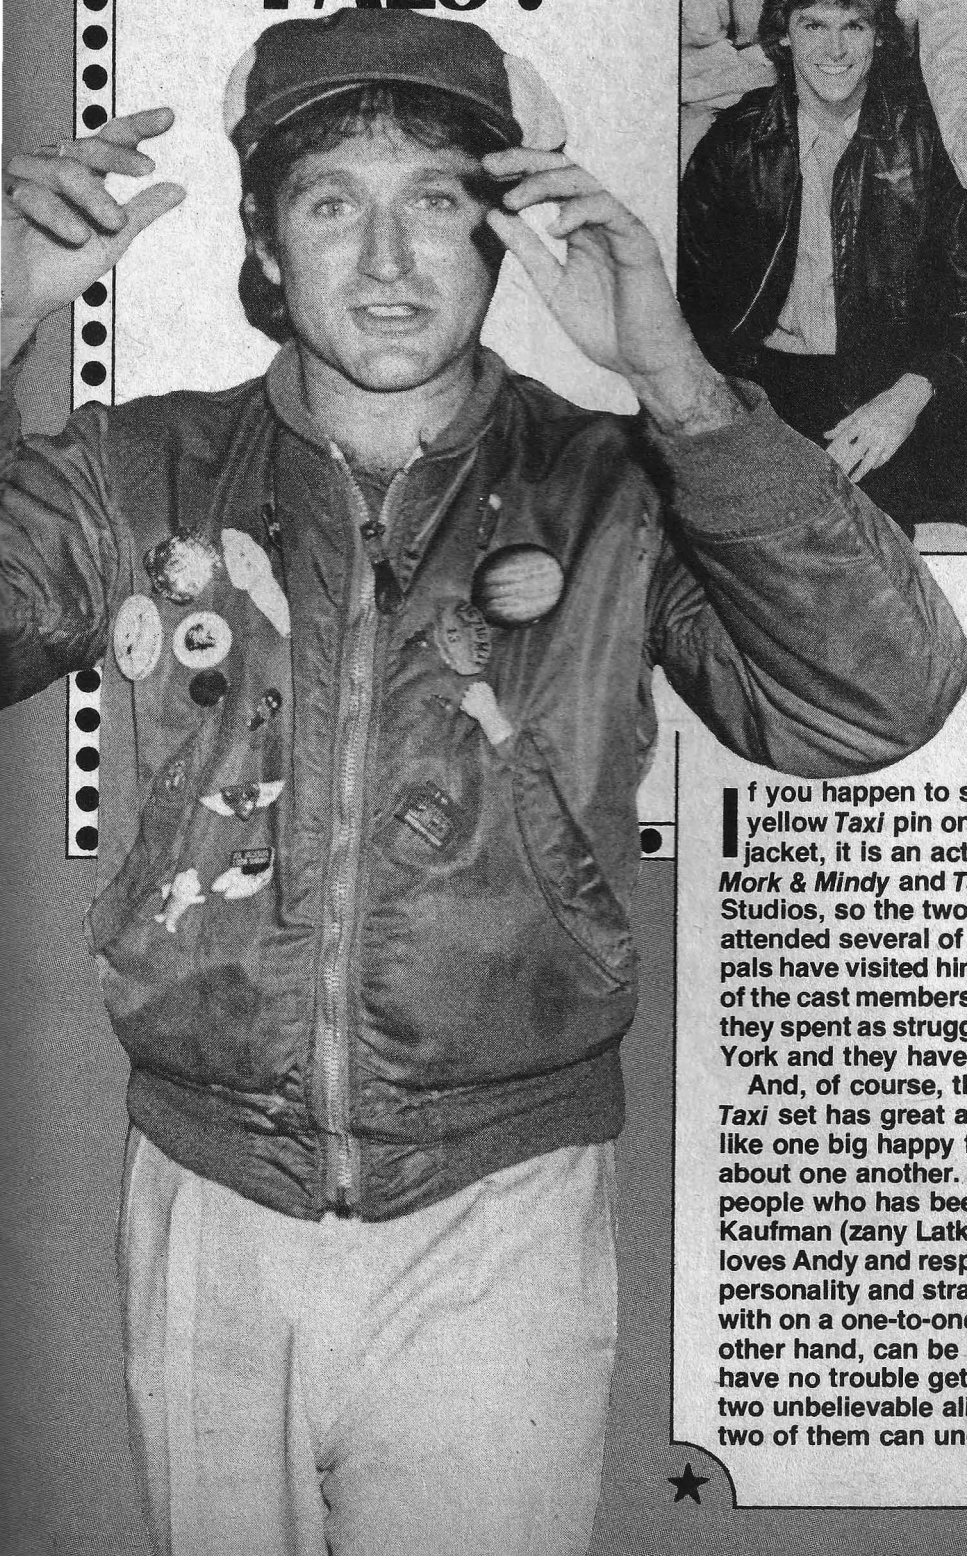

Lorraine Newman does great takeoffs of female reporters. Her sarcasm and wit is always right on target.

Bill Murray has taken over Dan's Weekend Update shot. He still does zany movie and TV reviews, though.

ROBIN & HIS TAXI PALS!

Robin is a regular visitor to the Taxi set. Randall Carver, Andy Kaufman, Judd Hirsch, Marilu Henner, Danny DeVito, Tony Danza and Jeff Conaway are big fans of Robin's and he loves them, too! Since both shows are filmed at Paramount Studios, it's easy for them to visit one another. Robin has a Taxi pin he wears a lot.

If you happen to see Robin Williams wearing a yellow Taxi pin on one of his suspenders or on his jacket, it is an actual souvenir from his Taxi pals. Mork & Mindy and Taxi are both filmed at Paramount Studios, so the two casts are neighbors. Robin has attended several of the Taxi wrap parties and his Taxi pals have visited him on the Mork & Mindy set, too. All of the cast members have fond memories of the years they spent as struggling actors and actresses in New York and they have a great time reminiscing.

And, of course, the camaraderie that exists on the Taxi set has great appeal for Robin, too. The cast is like one big happy family and they genuinely care about one another. Robin is also one of the few people who has been able to get close to Andy Kaufman (zany Latka on Taxi). While all the Taxi cast loves Andy and respects him very much, they find his personality and strange behavior a little hard to deal with on a one-to-one basis sometimes. Robin, on the other hand, can be just as wacky as Andy, so they have no trouble getting along, often launching into two unbelievable alien dialects that no one but the two of them can understand! ●

He's the hottest comedian around right now!

Robin is a one-of-a-kind comedian—the kind who possesses natural talent. He has an innate sense of humor and the ability to seek out life's laughable situations, at which he pokes a gentle rib or goes all-out for belly laughs. He has the wit and proper sense of timing to put it all together and come out with an inimitable, unmatchable style.

All America loves comedy, as we've proven through the years in our love affairs with Carol Burnett, Mary Tyler Moore,

Johnny Carson, Steve Martin, etc. But Robin has added a new dimension and reached "the outer limits" with his out-of-this-world Mork character! To show our admiration and respect for Robin's incredible ability to make people laugh, America has presented him with several outstanding awards. But perhaps the one which says it all is his "People's Choice Award for Best Comedy Actor." The voice of the people is loud and clear. More of Mork! Robin has been recognized! ●

ROBIN MAKES A RECORD!

He's been on TV in Mork & Mindy and a Home Box special, and will be doing another one soon. He's played in nightclubs—The Comedy Store, Catch a Rising Star and the Copacabana. He's even done pantomime on the streets of New York in front of the Metropolitan Museum for nickels & dimes. But now, Robin Williams is going to enter the world of recording. You will be able to take Robin Williams home with you in shiny vinyl.

The LP is tentatively being called "Robin Williams Live at the Copa," and will be on the Casablanca label. The recording will come from Robin's week long appearance at New York's Copacabana.

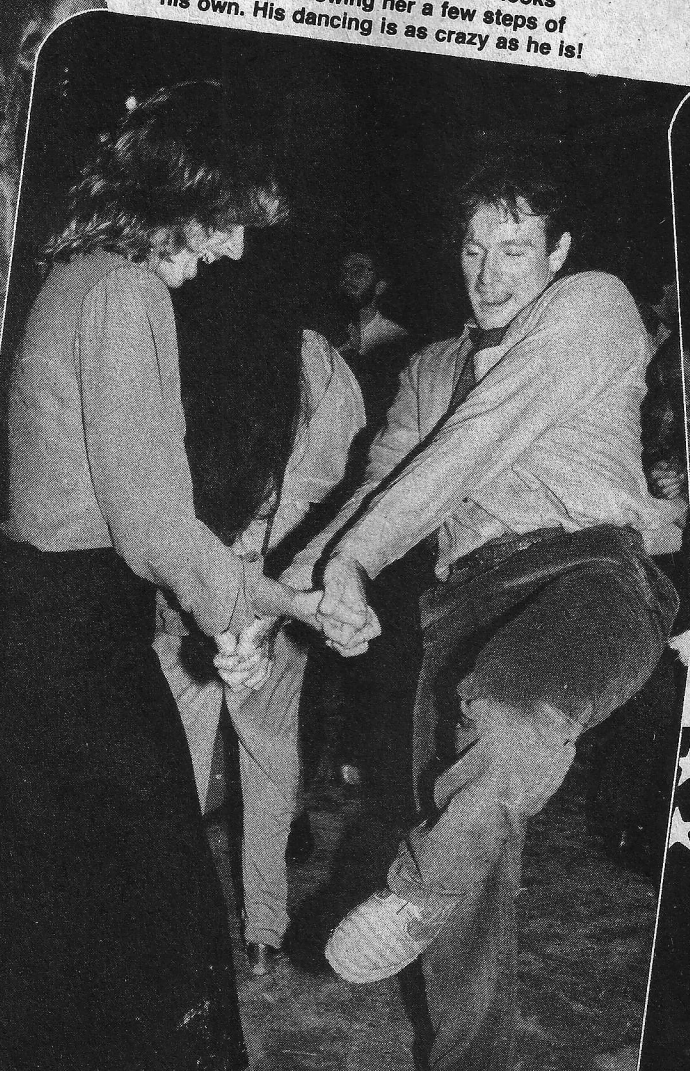

Just seeing how many he is on TV, you can imagine what he'd be like live. Well, at the Copa he was really crazy. He did things like change in and out of characters. Then he'd jump down and sit with the audience and show them how to heckle him. He did a show every night, plus a special show just for kids that was performed during the day because kids aren't allowed in the Copa. Robin loves kids and didn't want to miss the chance to see them when he was in New York, or them to miss him. After all why should grown-ups have all the fun? By the time this magazine comes out, Robin's LP should be on sale. ●

HAS

DISCO FEVER!

Valerie is a dance teacher, but it looks like Robin's showing her a few steps of his own. His dancing is as crazy as he is!

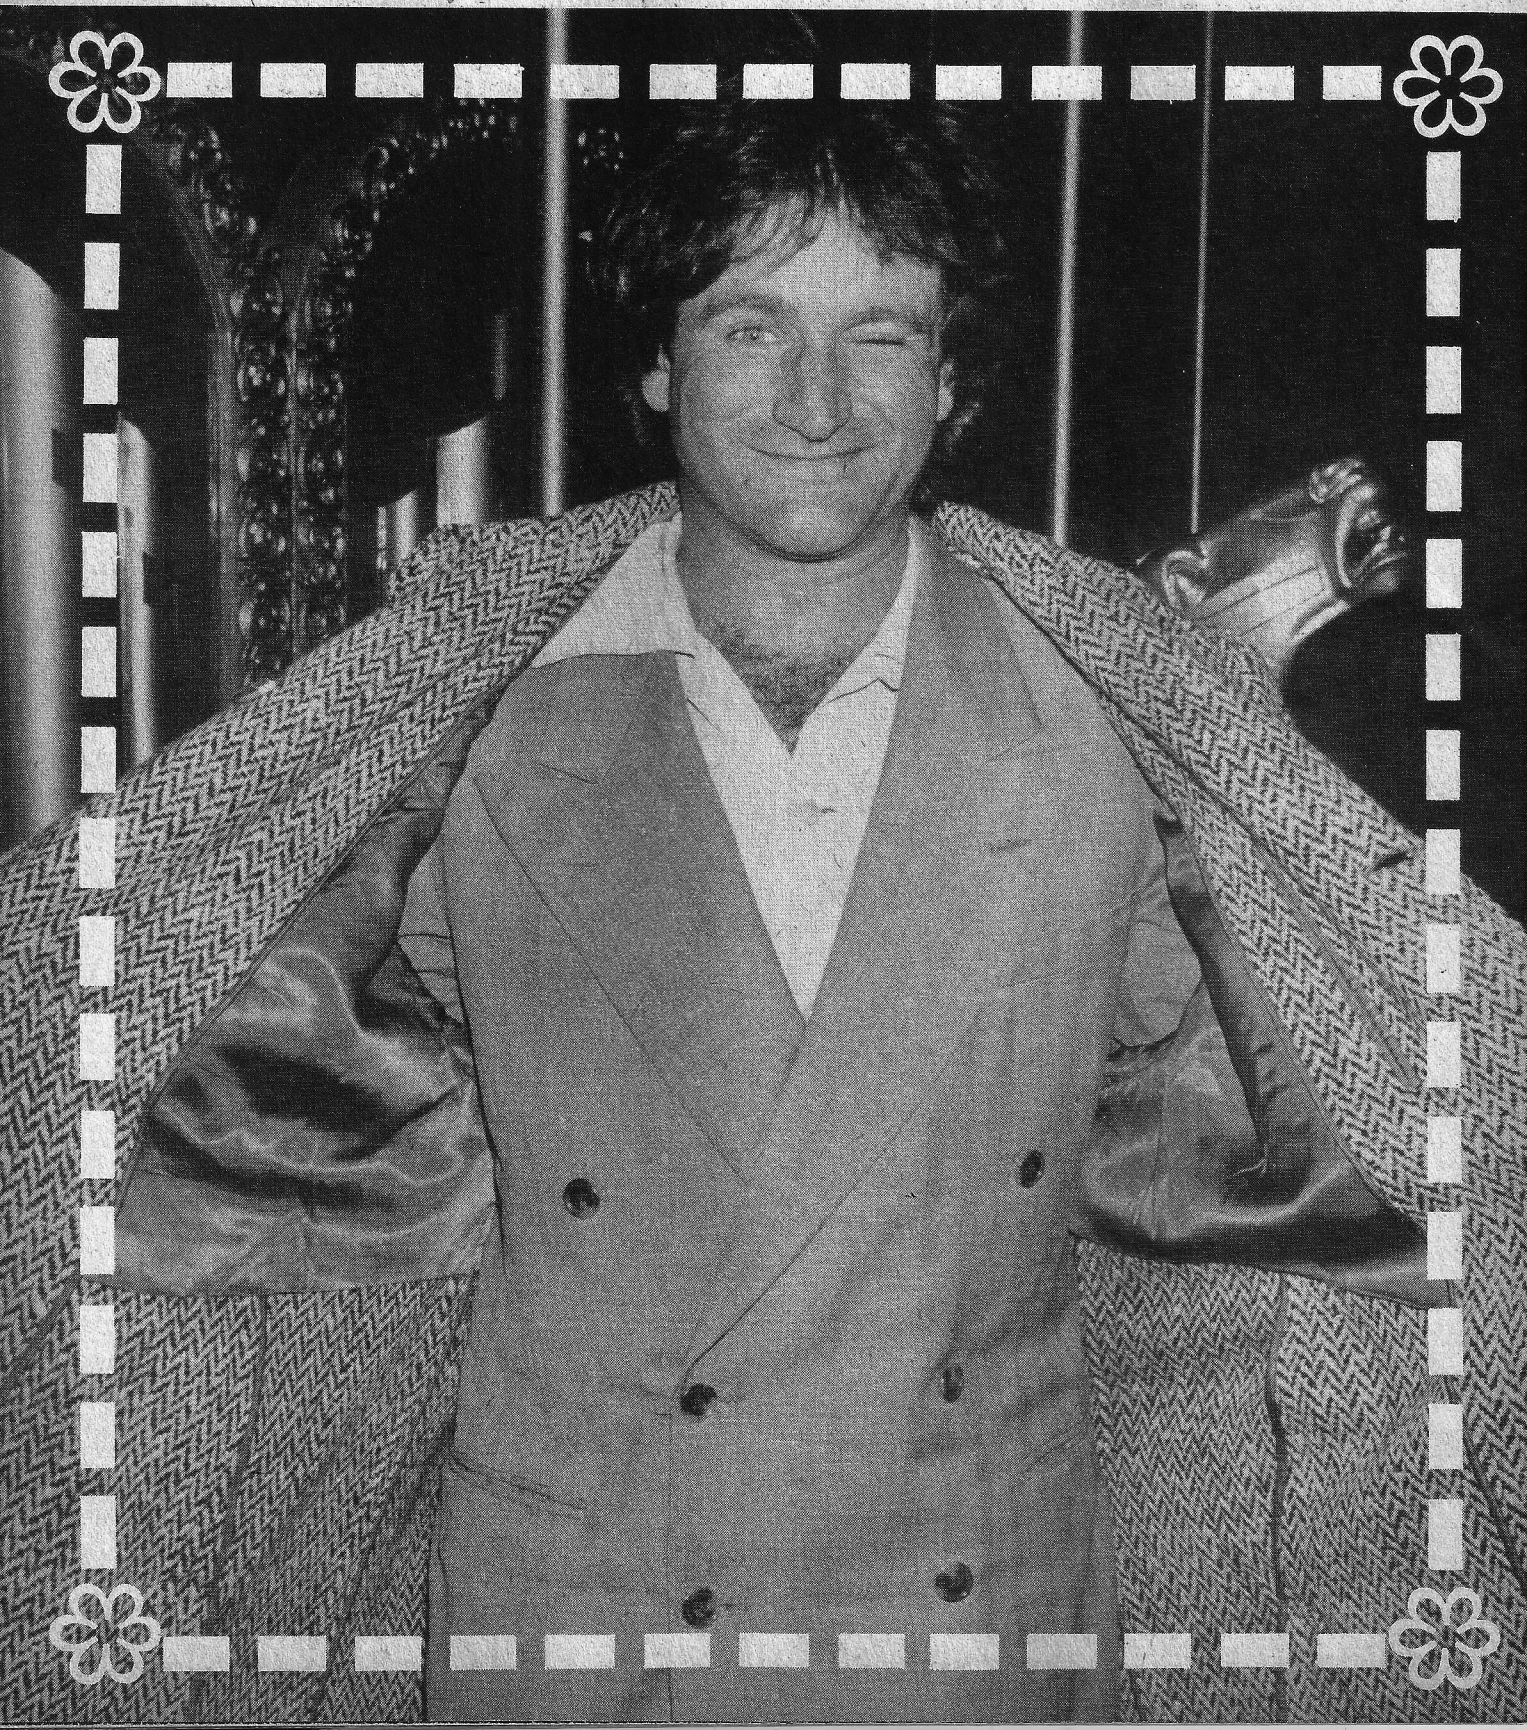

Everyone has gotten into disco in the last year, and that includes Robin Williams. He loves to shake his bootie at New York's Studio 54. Among his many talents, Robin is a terrific dancer, but like everything else he does, he has his own style. Robin likes to work hard and play hard. He finds dancing is a great way to relax, get some exercise, as well as a good way to let off steam. Robin has an excess of energy, which is why he's so wacky. All that energy has to go somewhere when he gets off work, and dancing is the perfect outlet. Robin's wife, Valerie, makes a living as a dance teacher, so she's always ready to get down and boogie! When the two of them hit the discos, they really cut the rug with their fancy footwork. Robin and Valerie love to get together and practice all the latest steps that make the disco scene. So, if you feel the disco fever coming on, don't fight it. It's great exercise, a good relaxer, not to mention a way to meet people. Besides it's just plain fun! You might see Robin there, too! ●

Robin and Valerie love to go to 54 and show off their fancy stepping.

Here they are struttin' their stuff. They'll dance till the cows come home!

GO ON A DREAM

DATE WITH MORK!

Don't be surprised if Mork brings a chair to you rather than waiting for you to sit.

Are you hopelessly devoted to Mork? Do you get tingles up and down your spine when Mork gets that innocent, adorable little-boy-lost look on his face? Do you sometimes find it hard to believe that Mindy hasn't fallen head-over-heels in love with Mork yet? If your answer is, "Yes!" to all three questions then you are definitely a candidate for a dream date with Mork.

Your first meeting with Mork would most likely leave you feeling confused because he's still not used to the way things are done here on Earth. But if you arrive home and find him waiting on your doorstep with a big goofy grin on his face, be prepared! He's about to ask you out!

Your date might start out with a romantic candlelit dinner followed by a stop at the latest disco in town; but you might also end up at the roller rink circling one another like planets all night long!

Mork will most likely be dressed in his baggy pants with a striped tee shirt, rainbow suspenders and dozens of pins on his jacket. He conveniently carries a tuxedo, top hat and tails in the luggage compartment of his spaceship.

Top hat and tails might be Mork's way of impressing you on your big night out on the town!

Is Earth too boring for you? Then Mork just might take you to the outerlimits! If he really likes you, he might even take you to Ork! That's only if Orson says it's okay, though.

Remember, Mork still isn't accustomed to our ways, so he probably won't know how to express his feelings for you in a way that won't offend you! Don't be shocked if he does something weird like kissing your elbow instead of your hand. He might rub noses with you like the Eskimos or even knock his head against yours the way The Coneheads do on Saturday Night

Rollerskating is a sport that's fun for Orkans and Earthlings alike. Don't laugh so hard you fall!

Live! And please be careful about holding hands with Mork!! Remember what happened to Laverne and Mindy when they touched his hand in his sensitive spot?!! It drives him absolutely out of his cholly-cho-cho!

If Mork tries to pay for things with thribets, remind him that Earthlings only accept money.

Don't be insulted if Mork spits at you after you are nice to him. That's just his way of saying, "Thank you," strange as it may seem!

Remember, a date with Mork will probably have you in stitches with laughter, but you should be careful not to hurt his feelings.

Behind all the craziness, he's a sensitive guy who likes experiencing his newfound emotions. He's very impressionable and it's very easy for him to think he's in love, so don't lead him on if you don't mean it. If you are patient, understanding and try to help him adjust, you just might find that Mork could be a more wonderful boyfriend than any of the nimnuls here on Earth! ●
